Sad Letter To Santa Spurs Response

SEATTLE (AP) — A haphazardly-spelled letter to Santa, signed "Crag" and bearing no return address, has prompted gifts of food, toys, and money from all over the country — and even a song.

"I think parents are using this as an example of what Christmas is about — sharing," said Shirley Martin, who organized a holiday drive for needy families after the letter was accidentally delivered to a restaurant here.

"Dear Santa," the letter said. "Mama said you got lost last year and couldn't find your way to our house. we wrilly mist you aspheshly my little sisters. pleas come this year santa."

To assure a visit from St. Nick, the boy said he was enclosing a map to his house. But he forgot to include the map, and the envelope bore no return address.

A postscript said, "ps. don't leav any thing for dady becuse he isn't hear anymore."

Employees at Francisco's restaurant started a food and toy drive, hoping that if they helped enough needy families in the area they might accidentally help Crag's.

"We have checks coming in from all over the country," said Mrs. Martin, who volunteered to help wrap gifts and has since taken over the drive. "We get calls from out of state from people who know needy families we could help. We tell them we will try, but that they should try to take care of that family, too."

So far, more than $1,500 in cash has come in, along with several tricycles and bicycles and piles of toys.

"When those trucks pull out of the parking lot, I think I'm gonna break down and cry," Mrs. Martin said.

Pilgrims Flock To Bethlehem

BETHLEHEM, Occupied West Bank (AP) — Thousands of Christian pilgrims were arriving today to celebrate "tidings of great joy" with bells, carols and a solemn Mass in the town where Christ was born.

Some 20,000 visitors were to arrive here Christmas Eve on buses that have to have special passes to come near the cramped and winding streets of this hilltop town. Strict military security has been imposed by Israeli soldiers to guard against terrorist attacks.

Once here, according to Mayor Elias Freij, the pilgrims will have almost as much trouble getting a hotel room in the town of 30,000 as did Joseph and Mary 2,000 years ago.

The religious ceremonies were to start with the motorcade of the Roman Catholic patriarch, Msgr. Giacomo Guiseppe Beltritti, making the five-mile trip from Jerusalem to Bethlehem.

Escorted by mounted police with lances, the patriarch was to make a ceremonial stop at the tomb of Rachel on the edge of Bethlehem, be greeted at Manger Square by local officials, then go to the 800-year-old Church of the Nativity.

Descending from the main part of the church, he was to enter the richly appointed Grotto of the Nativity and worship at the place hallowed in tradition as the stable-cave where Jesus was born.

Choirs and orchestras from the United States, Israel, Australia, Sweden, South Africa and Britain take over the stage in Manger Square after nightfall. Their carols and hymns will resound in the Church of the Nativity on the north side of the square, a Moslem mosque on the south side, and other denominations' churches nearby.

Pilgrims and tourists arriving on Thursday suffered several hours of delays because of a brief strike by flight stewards at the airport, one of the hotbeds of labor activism in Israel.

Carter Set For Quiet Christmas

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is settled down at home for a quiet Christmas with his family after completing the 50-day process of naming his cabinet.

The President-elect, whose news conferences and statements of cabinet choices have been virtually constant since his Nov. 2 election, vowed to give Americans a politically silent Christmas, saying he plans no more announcements until the holiday ends.

Carter completed his lengthy cabinet selection process Thursday by naming Joseph A. Califano Jr., a Washington lawyer and a principal architect of President Lyndon B. Johnson's "Great Society" legislation, to head the giant Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Carter also filled two other key noncabinet posts by naming former Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger as special assistant to the president in charge of energy policy, and Theodore Sorensen, once a principal aide to President John F. Kennedy, as director of the CIA.

After Christmas, he plans meetings with his 11-member cabinet on St. Simons Island off the south Georgia coast where his team will begin planning the policy positions and directions the new administration will take after the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Carter also has a meeting Tuesday on the island with New York Gov. Hugh Carey and New York City Mayor Abraham Beame.

But with his cabinet selections completed, the President-elect's most pressing concern appeared to be the Christmas season.

"I think the spirit of peace, the spirit of brotherhood and love that binds us together during this holiday season, transcends even any religious differences," Carter said at the end of a news conference Thursday at which he completed his cabinet nominations.

"And I hope that we can enter the new year with a commitment to being closer together, to sharing our problems and our opportunities, in the greatest nation on earth."

The Carter family plans a Christmas celebration in keeping with a long-held family tradition. Christmas breakfast will be held at the home of Carter's mother, 78-year-old "Miss Lillian" Carter, if her health permits.

Carter's mother has been resting at the Americus-Sumter County Hospital

Youths Clash With Police In Madrid

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Thousands of youths protesting the arrest of Communist leader Santiago Carrillo have clashed with police in Madrid's central square for a second night.

An estimated 3,000 to 4,000 young people threw rocks, raised clenched fists and hoisted red flags in front of police headquarters Thursday night. Police chased the demonstrators through side streets and threw smoke bombs to disperse them. No arrests or injuries were reported.

About 2,000 persons took part in similar demonstrations Wednesday night in the square.

Weather

Mostly sunny today with a high in the middle 30s. Cloudy with a chance of snow tonight and a low in the middle 20s. Winter storm warnings have been issued for Saturday with the possibility of some heavy snow accumulation. Temperatures will be in the middle 30s. Chances of precipitation, near zero percent today, 40 percent tonight and 70 percent Saturday. Thursday's high was 34 with a low during the night of six degrees.

Passes, usually reserved for diplomats and other dignitaries, admit a few hundred into St. Catherine's Roman Catholic Church next to the Church of the Nativity, where Msgr. Beltritti will celebrate Mass at midnight. The Mass will be broadcast by closed circuit television to a giant outdoor screen so that thousands of people in Manger Square can follow the service.

Mayor Freij, an Arab Christian, took note in his Christmas message of the tensions underlying the busy tourist scene in Bethlehem, which is part of the Israeli-occupied West Bank of the Jordan River.

"We send greetings from the Christmas city of the world," Freij said. "We hope that all countries will join hands to secure peace between Arabs and Jews and to guarantee the basic human rights of the Palestinian people."

near here. She was admitted to the hospital Wednesday after complaining that she did not feel well.

Califano said he could see "nothing incompatible between desegregation and excellence" and vowed to try to "bring a measure of excellence back to our education system."

Carter's other new appointees were questioned on their views of their new posts, and Sorensen quickly renounced assassinations, attempts to overthrow foreign governments or domestic spying as legitimate tools of the spy agency he will head.

Schlesinger immediately issued a warning on energy use that sounded a familiar tone often used by the Nixon and Ford administrations, saying the nation must cut its dependence on foreign oil.

Fords Spend Yule Holiday In Colorado

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford, limping from a skiing injury, plans to celebrate Christmas by attending midnight services tonight and will carry on a gift-exchanging tradition with his family on Christmas morning.

Ford remained off the ski slopes on Thursday, and there were two different versions about why.

Reporters noticed that Ford was limping Thursday and asked his press secretary, Ron Nessen, if Ford had taken a fall. Nessen, who was irate last Christmas over suggestions that Ford might take more than his share of falls on the ski slopes, replied that his boss was limping because he had aggravated an old knee injury.

Ford had skied extensively the first three days of his holiday here, despite a shortage of snow, but Nessen said the President stayed off the slopes Thursday because he was "just tired and stiff. It's no big deal."

Later, Ford's personal physician said the President actually had bruised his hip in a tumble on the slopes.

"He took a couple of rough spills and he bruised his hip and he's pretty stiff," Dr. William Lukash said. Skiing conditions have been poor at this snow-scarce resort.

Ford was limping noticeably as he headed for a private dinner on Thursday night. Asked about the limp, Ford said: "I haven't hurt it. Anybody who skis once in a while falls."

Lukash said he recommended that Ford stay off skis today and Ford shrugged, "I've got about six hours work to do and I want to get it done before Christmas."

He is working on his State of the Union message and on work relayed to this vacation resort from Washington.

The Ford family planned to attend Christmas Eve services tonight at the nondenominational Interfaith Chapel in this Swiss-style Rocky Mountain village. Earlier in the evening, they will be serenaded by carolers outside their rented chalet and have dinner with friends.

Earlier this week, following a years-old custom, each member of the Ford family drew a piece of paper bearing the name of another family member for whom he or she must buy a small Christmas stocking gift.

The exchange of the small gifts will be done after Christmas morning breakfast beside the Christmas tree, with a roaring fire in the fireplace, an aide said.

With the President and First Lady are their four children, Michael, 26, Jack, 24, Steven, 20, and Susan, 19, and Michael's wife, Gayle.

ROUNDTOWN

CHRISTMAS came a little early to Mrs. William Barthelmas of Route 2 Thursday.

She lost a cash bag containing $3,100 in cash and checks while in Circleville. But, Santa came early in the person of Robert Schamel, 97½ S. Pickaway St. Robert found the bag in front of Bowman's Shoe Store on N. Court St. He took it to the home of his mother.

Upon examining the contents of the bag, they discovered the address of Mrs. Barthelmas and promptly phoned her. Needless to say she was quite relieved and very grateful.

When Robert was asked if he ever entertained the idea of keeping the money, he answered, "No sir, it wasn't my money." With this kind of an attitude, Robert has really made it a Merry Christmas.

Time For Mistletoe, Bootlegging

CINCINNATI (AP) — It's that time of year again. Time for sleighbells, mistletoe—and bootlegging.

With local residents stocking up with extra holiday cheer, the problem of bootleg liquor from Kentucky to Ohio becomes greater every year around this time, according to Henry Ray, Ohio's local investigator in charge of liquor enforcement.

Because Kentucky's liquor taxes are lower than those in Ohio, the cost of liquor there is somewhat less. The savings can be substantial when a case or more of liquor is bought.

The effort to get a bargain is not that great either. It only means a ride across the Ohio River from Cincinnati, Ohio to Northern Kentucky.

The State of Ohio frowns on such bargain shopping. As a result, it is illegal to bring into Ohio anything more than one quart of liquor every 30 days from out of state.

Those who violate that law not only face confiscation of the bootleg liquor, but also confiscation of the vehicle used to transport it, Ray said.

To further discourage the practice, the state has set a maximum penalty of $500 fine and 60 days imprisonment for illegal possession of liquor and a maximum fine of $1,000 and six months imprisonment for illegal transportation of liquor, Ray said.

The penalties have not diminished the temptations however and Cincinnati remains a major location for the activity. Of the estimated 60 arrests made yearly for liquor smuggling into Ohio, about 30 occur in the Cincinnati region, Ray said.

Cincinnati has also had a brisk trade in bootleg cigarettes, since Ohio placed a 15-cent tax on each pack of cigarettes sold in the state. Kentucky's tax per pack is just three cents.

When Ohio raised its sales tax in 1971, sales in the Cincinnati region dropped by 35 per cent, according to John D. Ryan, chief of inspection with the Ohio Department of Taxation. Sales in Northern Kentucky however jumped by 70 per cent, he said.

It is estimated that the State of Ohio annually loses $20 million because of cigarette smuggling. Meanwhile, the U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations estimates that about one third of the $38 million that Kentucky nets annually in cigarette taxes is the result of smuggling activities.

The biggest problem according to Ryan is with the shopper who travels from Cincinnati to Kentucky in order to shop.

The shopper may not even realize he is breaking a state law when he buys the cheaper cigarettes in Kentucky.

Ryan warned however that the only cigarette purchased in Kentucky that can be legally brought back into Ohio "is the one you're smoking."

Strong Winds Drive Huge Oil Slick To Sea

BOSTON (AP) — Marine experts are hoping that an expected wind shift will keep a 100-mile long carpet of heavy oil from encroaching on the rich fishing grounds of Georges Bank. But that's all they can do — hope.

Forecasters said the wind would reverse from southeasterly to northwesterly today and could hold off the oil slick, which is spreading from the tanker Argo Merchant, wrecked on the shoals off Nantucket Island.

The U.S. Coast Guard said winds will almost certainly keep the oil from any U.S. shore, and they predicted that if it comes ashore anywhere, it might be across the Atlantic.

"In a few months, if it sticks together, it might come ashore somewhere — Iceland, Great Britain, who knows?" said Coast Guard Capt. Lynn Hein.

The spill, which began shortly after the vessel ran aground Dec. 15, has developed into one of history's worst. Nearly the entire cargo — 7.6 million gallons of No. 6 industrial oil — is coating the ocean.

The Coast Guard said water samples taken Thursday, five miles from the ship in the thickest part of the spill, showed that almost all the oil was concentrated within a few feet of the surface, and that little or none was found at a depth of 150 feet.

The bow section of the Argo Merchant was still afloat. But divers opened hatches Thursday to let seawater into the hull. A Coast Guard spokesman said the bow will probably sink in the first heavy weather. He said the Coast Guard wanted to prevent the wreck from causing any other accidents.

The middle section of the 640-foot vessel has settled to the bottom, and the stern is firmly grounded in the sandy shoals, with only its topmost parts visible.

Meanwhile, the ship's captain, George Papadopoulos, was giving depositions on the circumstances of the grounding. He and the ship's owners are being sued for $120 million by Cape Cod fishermen for anticipated damages to fishing grounds.

Fishermen from New Bedford have reported hauling up dead, oil-soaked birds in their nets, and bird clean-up stations have been set up on Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and Cape Cod.

But the Coast Guard said only 17 birds — five of them dead — were brought to stations on Nantucket Thursday.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology reported Thursday that the vessel had been involved in 21 accidents since it was built in Germany in 1953, three more than had been known earlier.

In Seattle, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said he will open congressional hearings on tanker safety "as soon as Congress reconvenes." Magnuson is chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

"We've got to have more stringent regulation," he said. "We've got to establish some rules of the game on liability."

He said the Coast Guard has been too lenient in enforcing American restrictions on foreign vessels.

Carter Appointees Face Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top-level Carter administration appointees say they will quit private clubs that have no black members and do not routinely accept women. But the membership status of three other Carter nominees in similar organizations remains unchanged.

The five are men named by President-elect Carter to be secretaries of defense, state and Treasury, the attorney general — all cabinet posts — and the director of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

Carter said Monday that he personally would not join private clubs that discriminate on the basis of sex or race. He said he hoped his cabinet members wouldn't join such clubs but that he would not tell them what to do.

By Wednesday, Atty. Gen.-designate Griffin Bell and Thomas "Bert" Lance, named to head the OMB, said they would drop their memberships in private clubs in Atlanta and Savannah, Ga. None of the clubs have black members.

The chairman of one club refuses to say if women are allowed to join, and a spokesman for another says a few women who are widows of members are allowed. Another of the clubs does allow women members.

Three other Carter cabinet nominees and the President-elect's choice for deputy secretary of defense have similar memberships and have not announced any intention to resign.

The Carter transition office said it did not know whether the three cabinet nominees — Michael Blumenthal, named to be Treasury secretary; Dr. Harold Brown, secretary of defense-designate; or Cyrus Vance, Carter's choice for secretary of state — planned to retain their club memberships or resign.

None of the three could be reached for comment.

Blumenthal is a member of the Barton Hills Country Club near Ann Arbor, Mich. The country club said Blumenthal was a nonresident "social member."

Asked, "Is the club open to blacks and women?" a club employee who said she had the membership records replied, "No, it is not."

Brown, president of the California Institute of Technology, belongs to the Cosmo Club in Washington and the Bohemian Club in San Francisco, both clubs confirmed that women are barred from membership and, at the Bohemian Club, must enter by a side door when brought as guests.

Vance is a member of a New York City men's club, the Links Club. A club spokesman said the club has no black or women members. Vance also is listed in Who's Who as a member of the Metropolitan Club in Washington, another club that doesn't allow women members.

Carter's choice for deputy defense secretary, Charles Duncan, is a member of two all-white country clubs near his home in Houston, according to his office. These are the Houston Country Club and the River Oaks Country Club.

Yule Gift Of Miracle For Family

CINCINNATI (AP) — There is no more need for Christmas presents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Groene.

The family got all it wanted this week when 15-year-old daughter walked through the front door on crutches and greeted friends and relatives who welcomed her home.

Following an accident last August, doctors said the odds that Jo Groene would ever move her arms and legs again were practically nil. She was paralyzed from the neck down.

The accident occurred while Jo was at cheerleading practice. She tried to flip from the shoulders of one of her friends. The timing was wrong and she landed on her neck.

The negative prognosis continued until a few weeks ago when Jo suddenly was able to move her legs. It was first diagnosed as merely a muscle spasm, but it has turned out to be more than that.

"This is our Christmas present," said Mrs. Groene. "The doctors said they could not explain it. It wasn't something they did. It was a miracle. "God answered our prayers. Her friends offered Masses. Everyone prayed for her."

When she arrived home she was able to pick up her own glass and drink a champagne toast with her friends. She talked eagerly about Christmas and the upcoming New Year's Eve party.

She is an active girl, her father said. "She was always involved in a lot of things. Volleyball, softball, dances."

A lot more therapy remains though. Mrs. Groene said her daughter will have to continue hospital visits for leg and arm exercises.

Jo said she was just "glad to be home" and plans to go out with her friends.

Woman Has 3rd Set Of Twins

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Beating odds of 512,000 to one, Margaret Murphy has done it again — she's had her third set of fraternal twins.

"I guess my reaction was I really wasn't too surprised since it happened before. At least I wasn't as surprised as I was with the other sets," she said Thursday, one day after the twin boys were born.

Mrs. Murphy, 36, said her doctor had not anticipated the third set.

"I guess he walked out into the hall, threw up his hands, and told Jim he'd done it again," she said.

"Jim is just in seventh heaven," she said about her husband, an electrical lineman at Commonwealth Electric Co.

The Murphys, who have two other children, Jim, 7, and Ann, 5, say they will probably name the newcomers Pat and Mike.

Their first set of twins — Jennifer and Theresa, who was stillborn — were born in 1973. On Thanksgiving Day 1974, Daniel and David were born.

James Eisen, genetics professor at the University of Nebraska Medical Center, said the chances of having one set of fraternal (not identical) twins is one in 80. The chances of two sets are one in 80 times 80 and for three sets it is one in 80 times 80 times 80, or one in 512,000.

Mrs. Murphy said that unless it happened many generations ago, the couple is the first in both their families to be parents of twins.

"Sometimes it gets a little hectic," she said of having seven children. "You just kind of get into a routine. I am thinking about having a girl live in for a few months until the new ones are on a schedule and sleeping nights."

"We originally thought we would have three children. These may be the last, but the last time I was here (BerganMercy Hospital) I said I wouldn't be back."

Joseph G. Sharp, who left two widows when he died two weeks ago in an Indiana plane crash, had been a bigamist at least twice before, according to Michigan records.

At the time of Sharp's death, Michigan and Indiana authorities discovered he was married to a woman in Grosse Pointe Park, Mich. and another in Gahanna, Ohio, a Columbus suburb.

But records in southeastern Michigan's Wayne and Oakland counties show Sharp had a 32-year habit of marrying more than one woman at a time.

Sharp's tangled marital records show:

—In 1944, he married Josephine J. Sharp in Yuma, Ariz. Their daughter, Mrs. Barbara Quinn, recalled that her mother had "almost nothing nice" to say about the man, although she did say he was "superiorly intelligent."

—In mid-1951, Josephine divorced Sharp. Almost immediately, he married Maxine Bushey.

—On June 21, 1954 — while still married to Maxine — Sharp wed Virginia Lee Mitchell in Berkely, Mich., using the name Jay Gordon Sharp. They had two daughters.

—On Aug. 15, 1954, his divorce from Maxine became final.

—On Nov. 6, 1958, Sharp married Constance Jean in Detroit, as Joseph Gordon Sharpe. But when she discovered he was still married to Virginia, Constance filed for annulment.

—Virginia got her divorce on Sept. 19, 1960. In November that same year, Constance's annulment was finalized.

He married Mary Louise, who now lives in the plush Detroit suburb of Grosse Pointe Park, in February of 1962. They had two children. In 1967, Helen Sharp told Ohio authorities, she married Sharp after he said he had divorced his Michigan wife.

City Officials

Facing Charges

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Four Greensburg city officials accused of shooting a flock of federally-protected purple martins will go on trial in U.S. District Court here Jan. 27.

The trial date was set Wednesday after the four pleaded innocent.

Mayor James Ryle, Fire Chief Fred Dance, Street Commissioner Ernest Simmons and street department employee David Denny were charged with a misdemeanor, specifically taking or attempting to take purple martins, a migratory bird protected by law. The maximum penalty for conviction is six months in jail and a $500 fine.

The birds were shot Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 when, according to the defendants, they feared the estimated 80,000 to 100,000 birds on the courthouse square would cause a health hazard.

TWO-MINUTE WARNING

Strong Winds Drive Huge Oil Slick To Sea

BOSTON (AP) — Marine experts are hoping that an expected wind shift will keep a 100-mile long carpet of heavy oil from encroaching on the rich fishing grounds of Georges Bank. But that's all they can do — hope.

Forecasters said the wind would reverse from southeasterly to northwesterly today and could hold off the oil slick, which is spreading from the tanker Argo Merchant, wrecked on the shoals off Nantucket Island.

The U.S. Coast Guard said winds will almost certainly keep the oil from any U.S. shore, and they predicted that if it comes ashore anywhere, it might be across the Atlantic.

"In a few months, if it sticks together, it might come ashore somewhere — Iceland, Great Britain, who knows?" said Coast Guard Capt. Lynn Hein.

The spill, which began shortly after the vessel ran aground Dec. 15, has developed into one of history's worst. Nearly the entire cargo — 7.6 million gallons of No. 6 industrial oil — is coating the ocean.

The Coast Guard said water samples taken Thursday, five miles from the ship in the thickest part of the spill, showed that almost all the oil was concentrated within a few feet of the surface, and that little or none was found at a depth of 150 feet.

The bow section of the Argo Merchant was still afloat. But divers opened hatches Thursday to let seawater into the hull. A Coast Guard spokesman said the bow will probably sink in the first heavy weather. He said the Coast Guard wanted to prevent the wreck from causing any other accidents.

The middle section of the 640-foot vessel has settled to the bottom, and the stern is firmly grounded in the sandy shoals, with only its topmost parts visible.

Meanwhile, the ship's captain, George Papadopoulos, was giving depositions on the circumstances of the grounding. He and the ship's owners are being sued for $120 million by Cape Cod fishermen for anticipated damages to fishing grounds.

Fishermen from New Bedford have reported hauling up dead, oil-soaked birds in their nets, and bird clean-up stations have been set up on Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and Cape Cod.

But the Coast Guard said only 17 birds — five of them dead — were brought to stations on Nantucket Thursday.

The Massachusetts Institute of Technology reported Thursday that the vessel had been involved in 21 accidents since it was built in Germany in 1953, three more than had been known earlier.

In Seattle, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said he will open congressional hearings on tanker safety "as soon as Congress reconvenes." Magnuson is chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee.

"We've got to have more stringent regulation," he said. "We've got to establish some rules of the game on liability."

He said the Coast Guard has been too lenient in enforcing American restrictions on foreign vessels.

Carter Appointees Face Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two top-level Carter administration appointees say they will quit private clubs that have no black members and do not routinely accept women. But the membership status of three other Carter nominees in similar organizations remains unchanged.

The five are men named by President-elect Carter to be secretaries of defense, state and Treasury, the attorney general — all cabinet posts — and the director of the White House Office of Management and Budget.

Carter said Monday that he personally would not join private clubs that discriminate on the basis of sex or race. He said he hoped his cabinet members wouldn't join such clubs but that he would not tell them what to do.

By Wednesday, Atty. Gen.-designate Griffin Bell and Thomas "Bert" Lance, named to head the OMB, said they would drop their memberships in private clubs in Atlanta and Savannah, Ga. None of the clubs have black members.

The chairman of one club refuses to say if women are allowed to join, and a spokesman for another says a few women who are widows of members are allowed. Another of the clubs does allow women members.

Three other Carter cabinet nominees and the President-elect's choice for deputy secretary of defense have similar memberships and have not announced any intention to resign.

The Carter transition office said it did not know whether the three cabinet nominees — Michael Blumenthal, named to be Treasury secretary; Dr. Harold Brown, secretary of defense-designate; or Cyrus Vance, Carter's choice for secretary of state — planned to retain their club memberships or resign.

None of the three could be reached for comment.

Blumenthal is a member of the Barton Hills Country Club near Ann Arbor, Mich. The country club said Blumenthal was a nonresident "social member."

Asked, "Is the club open to blacks and women?" a club employee who said she had the membership records replied, "No, it is not."

Brown, president of the California Institute of Technology, belongs to the Cosmo Club in Washington and the Bohemian Club in San Francisco, both clubs confirmed that women are barred from membership and, at the Bohemian Club, must enter by a side door when brought as guests.

Vance is a member of a New York City men's club, the Links Club. A club spokesman said the club has no black or women members. Vance also is listed in Who's Who as a member of the Metropolitan Club in Washington, another club that doesn't allow women members.

Carter's choice for deputy defense secretary, Charles Duncan, is a member of two all-white country clubs near his home in Houston, according to his office. These are the Houston Country Club and the River Oaks Country Club.

Rockbridge Man Winner

CLEVELAND (AP) — Wilmon P. Koch of Rockbridge got an early Christmas present Thursday night when he captured the $250,000 top prize in the Ohio Lottery Pot O' Gold game.

Koch, 68, a retired meat cutter and packing house salesman, said he rarely misses a week buying lottery tickets, and added, "I'll still go ahead and buy them every week."

Koch and his wife, Oleta, 68, have four children and nine grandchildren.

The big winner in the Double Play game was Walter J. Huff of Coshocton, who took home $63,000. The other Double Play winner was Betty Barrell of Madison, who won $25,000.

Other Pot O' Gold winners included Jean Swoboda of Defiance, $25,000; Keith Cartmill of Lorain, $10,600; Louis Morris Jr. of Campbell, $9,900; Harry E. Rose of Girard, $9,500; and William McNatt of Cleveland $8,800.

Yule Gift Of Miracle For Family

CINCINNATI (AP) — There is no more need for Christmas presents at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Groene.

The family got all it wanted this week when 15-year-old daughter walked through the front door on crutches and greeted friends and relatives who welcomed her home.

Following an accident last August, doctors said the odds that Jo Groene would ever move her arms and legs again were practically nil. She was paralyzed from the neck down.

The accident occurred while Jo was at cheerleading practice. She tried to flip from the shoulders of one of her friends. The timing was wrong and she landed on her neck.

The negative prognosis continued until a few weeks ago when Jo suddenly was able to move her legs. It was first diagnosed as merely a muscle spasm, but it has turned out to be more than that.

"This is our Christmas present," said Mrs. Groene. "The doctors said they could not explain it. It wasn't something they did. It was a miracle. "God answered our prayers. Her friends offered Masses. Everyone prayed for her."

When she arrived home she was able to pick up her own glass and drink a champagne toast with her friends. She talked eagerly about Christmas and the upcoming New Year's Eve party.

She is an active girl, her father said. "She was always involved in a lot of things. Volleyball, softball, dances."

A lot more therapy remains though. Mrs. Groene said her daughter will have to continue hospital visits for leg and arm exercises.

Jo said she was just "glad to be home" and plans to go out with her friends.

MR. RAY E. WAGNER

Mr. Ray E. Wagner, 61, Ashville, died 1:30 a.m. Friday at his residence. Born March 17, 1915 in Pickaway County, he was the son of Oliver and Mary Shookrider Wagner.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Ruth Wagner; three sisters, Helen Wagner, Florida; Myra Tryschoda, New Hampshire; Ruth Ann Deprizio, Columbus; two brothers, Paul Wagner, Columbus; Curtis Wagner, Ashville; nieces and nephews.

The funeral service will be held 1 p.m. Monday at Bastian Funeral Home in Ashville with the Rev. John Currens officiating. Burial will be in Harrison Twp. Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home 7-9 p.m. Saturday, and 2-4 and 7-9 p.m. Sunday.

Mayor James Ryle, Fire Chief Fred Dance, Street Commissioner Ernest Simmons and street department employee David Denny were charged with a misdemeanor, specifically taking or attempting to take purple martins, a migratory bird protected by law. The maximum penalty for conviction is six months in jail and a $500 fine.

The birds were shot Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 when, according to the defendants, they feared the estimated 80,000 to 100,000 birds on the court-house square would cause a health hazard.

Carter Among Few To Be Openly Devout

EDITOR'S NOTE: This fifth and final installment of a five-part Christmas series about the religion of U.S. presidents, "The Presidents and God," deals with Jimmy Carter.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

Most presidents of the United States have avoided elaborating their particular religious views openly, regarding it politically hazardous and limiting themselves in public to reverent generalities. But Jimmy Carter laid it out explicitly, in the clear.

Among presidents down through the years, only Lincoln has so plainly expressed his theological ideas in connection with that office, and possibly Wilson. Most of the others of high religious concern, such as Jefferson and John Adams, kept private their detailed discussions of it, preserved largely in personal papers.

But Carter, newly elected to the presidency, brushed aside the conventional reticence and spelled out frankly and publicly just where he stood in matters religious. He spoke against any governmental partisanship about religion and disclaimed presuming to have himself any special pipeline to God, but strongly and specifically affirmed dependence on him.

"I pray many times a day for God's guidance as I confront difficult decisions," he says. "I ask God to let me do what's right, and let me do what's best." But he said, "The fact that a person has deep religious convictions doesn't mean that person thinks he is always right. I recognize my own shortcomings and sinfulness and my need to improve, and the need for forgiveness from the people around me, and from God."

Carter, the first Georgian and the first full-fledged Southerner elected president since before the Civil War, also is the first in the presidential line to assert openly that Christ is the main influence in his life, and the first to make his concepts of Scriptural teaching and evangelical belief part of the electoral process.

"Jesus comes first in my life, even before politics," he says. "I don't want anything that's not God's will for my life. . . I'm a Christian, no matter what." But he also says of Judaism: "We worship the same God. We study the same Bible."

A Southern Baptist, Carter has served as deacon and Sunday School teacher in his home congregation in Plains, Ga. He has also served as trustee of the national denomination's service agency, the Brotherhood Commission, and as a lay preacher, evangelist and worker on mission teams in Lock Haven Pa., and among Spanish-speaking poor in Springfield, Mass.

"My religion," he says, "is as natural to me as breathing."

Whether his unreserved religious faith appealed to voters or not, it was not just pro forma as it has seemed to be with some past presidents. He had lived it and witnessed to it before ever aspiring to the presidency, and it clearly was the real Carter.

In contrast, modern political savvy has tended to downplay the religious factor, keeping it so generalized as not really to matter one way or another and to bother no one. But Carter bluntly laid it on the line. Regardless of whether it helped him or hurt him at the polls, he declared his convictions.

"I do not hold them because of their effect on the electorate," he says. "I hold them despite their effect. I hold them because I believe them. They're part of the Carter package. They come with me."

When the question first arose in the beginning of his campaign in 1975, he says he had a moment's hesitation about whether to pass it off with only his denominational affiliation, the usual sidelining of it, but "I decided I'd respond with the same kind of openness and honesty to this question as to any other question."

He took some lumps for it. The political intelligentsia groaned. Numerous columnists and commentators voiced their cynicism.

Carter says the most unexpected aspect of the campaign had been the furor over his religious views. "So many analyses, so many stories, so many questions, so many expressions of doubt and skepticism — and occasionally ridicule," he says. "It really amazed me, and sometimes it hurt a little."

Two other Baptists besides Carter have been president: Warren G. Harding, 1921-23, a perfunctory, incidental member of the Northern branch, the American Baptist; and Harry Truman, 1945-53, a Southern Baptist like Carter, but not so extensively active in church affairs, although a consistent worshipper, versed in Scriptures.

Carter, despite misportrayals of his religion, is not a rigid Biblical literalist nor hard-line fundamentalist, being neither defensive nor judgmental. Rather, he conveys a positive, trusting religious viewpoint, a man of tolerant breadth and disciplined devotional practice.

"I pray many times during the day," he says, noting that he does so especially when he hears of someone in trouble or when facing a decision affecting the lives of others. "For a long time, I've had a habit of reading a chapter in the Bible every day. It's been a help to me and become part of my life. . . I haven't missed a day this year."

Lately, he's been reading from a Spanish version, combining both sustaining his fluency in that language and sharpening his Scriptural consciousness, reflecting his bent for getting maximum efficiency from his time.

While his principles are grounded in the Bible, he also is familiar with the works of the great religious thinkers, Reinhold Niebuhr, Karl Barth, Paul Tillich, Soren Kierkegaard, and often refers to their insights.

By a strange irony, the question has been raised about whether Carter might use the presidency to foist his religious views on others. Yet he belongs to a tradition, the Baptists, who from the first have been among the staunchest champions of individual liberty in religion and of the U.S. policy separating church and state.

Indeed, Baptists played a key role in obtaining that policy. The first American colony assuring religious freedom was established in 1639 in Rhode Island by Baptist Roger Williams. A Baptist leader in Virginia, John Leland, had a major influence with James Madison in drafting the first constitutional amendment forbidding any "law respecting the establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

So fervently have Baptists defended that principle that they're sometimes accused of carrying it too far, such as in refusing federal loans for their colleges. They proclaim a spirit of individuality in religion, insisting that each person is free to determine his beliefs and interpret Scripture according to his own conscience.

"I believe in complete separation of church and state," Carter says. "Certainly I would never use political office to impose my religious convictions on someone else. The broad diversity of philosophical and religious beliefs in our country is one of our greatest strengths."

Nevertheless, like any genuinely religious person, Carter makes clear that his faith permeates his whole outlook and provides the framework of his values in his approach to issues, personal and political.

"As far as my decisions as a political leader, they are affected very heavily by my Christian beliefs," he says. "I don't look on the presidency as a pastorate. But it gives me a chance to serve and it also gives me a chance to magnify whatever influence I have, for either good or bad, and I hope it will be for good. . . I try to utilize my religious beliefs as a constant guide in making my decisions as a private and public citizen."

He notes that there are ethical principles common to many religions — compassion, brotherhood, love, truth, honesty, decency, and he adds, "I believe it is a state's responsibility and privilege to reflect these virtues in its policies, both domestic and foreign."

Carter's religion was portrayed as being problematical for Jews, yet Southern Baptists and other evangelicals are among the sturdiest supporters of the state of Israel, seeing it as a fulfillment of Biblical prophecy. Carter himself affirms that view.

"The survival of Israel is not a political issue — it is a moral imperative," he says. Surveys indicate Jews gave him 75 per cent of their vote, surpassing their usual margin for Democrats.

Carter, whose main boyhood playmates were blacks, also showed that special Southern understanding for them, and they reciprocated with 90 per cent of the black vote, providing his majority in several areas. . . probably is the first president whose election edge came from blacks.

Among Catholics, he took an dedicated 54 per cent of the votes des: criticism by some of the church's pr and bishops for his refusal to advocate a constitutional amendment outlawing all abortions. He emphasized he personally opposed abortion, and would do all he could to minimize the need for it.

Carter, baptized in his home church as a boy of 11, had experienced a spiritual rebirth in 1966 at the age of 42, described as being "born again," a common evangelical expression drawn from Jesus' statement in John

3:7: "You must be born anew."

Although the mass media treated it as some kind of strange anomaly, a Gallup survey indicates 34 per cent of all adult Americans say they have been "born again" — half the Protestants and 18 per cent of Roman Catholics. Actually it is basic to all Christianity whether the term is used or not.

In Carter's case, as he tells it, it happened at a low point in his political fortunes. Troubled that his faith did not take priority over other interests, he wrestled with these and other misgivings on a conversational stroll through the pine woods near his home with his sister, Ruth Carter Stapleton, a psychologist-evangelist.

"I determined then and there really to commit my life to Christ," he says. "I became uniquely aware of the Holy Spirit as an integral part of my life. I began to read the Bible with new interest and perspective. Since then, I've had just about a new life. I've had an inner peace and inner assurance that have transformed my life for the better. Now that doesn't mean I'm better, but I'm better off."

In his campaign, Carter not only faced misapprehensions about his own faith but false stereotypes about his denomination, the Southern Baptist, as a narrow, dogmatic body. Actually it embraces a diverse, yet generally moderate religious spectrum. With 12.7 million members, it is the largest Protestant body in the country, now spread through all 50 states.

Although predominantly white, its national convention repeatedly has condemned race discrimination and segregation. It has less than 1 per cent black membership and many of its congregations still are solidly white. Only last month did Carter's home church in Plains vote to open its membership to blacks, as long advocated by Carter's family.

As president, he says he plans no special services in the White House as in the Nixon era when the president had his own selected religious attendants. Carter intends simply to participate in a nearby Baptist congregation and "play down any sort of show about it."

Carter's rise to the presidency heightened a religious element in the national consciousness. While he sometimes may have demurred at precision on various other issues, he seemed to have touched some deeper chord, some more basic pain and need in American society for moral fiber and spiritual strength. It was a theme he constantly sounded.

Perhaps he may bring some tempering of the secular saturation that has dominated society in recent times, suggests Lutheran scholar Richard J. Neuhaus. He notes that the last presidents to do so were Wilson and, more successfully, Lincoln.

Both of them also were Southerners by birth. Perhaps Carter's influence may also help stimulate a climate in which the moral traditions that shaped the nation's heritage can surface more naturally, enriching the diversity that is American life.

The Rev. Martin Luther King Sr., father of the late civil rights leader, put it this way at the Democratic convention that nominated the man destined to be the next U.S. President: "Surely the Lord has sent Jimmy Carter to come out and bring America back to where it belongs."

A Page Of Opinion

Britain's 'Devolution'

Britain has reached such a deteriorated state that its Labor Party leaders apparently are more inclined to excise the problems rather than confront them. How that approach will work in the case of Scotland and Wales soon may be seen.

The party's leader in the House of Commons, Michael Foot, has proposed a "Devolution Bill" to give the Scots and Welsh semi-autonomy over their affairs, but only to a point. That point is where the trouble may come.

Residents of Scotland and Wales have become increasingly vocal in recent years over insistence upon independence from the mother country. Foot's plan, quite frankly acknowledged, is to give the two members of the United Kingdom just enough local autonomy to keep them from clamoring for a total break.

Under the plan, legislative power would be granted the Scots and Welsh over such matters as education, local government, housing, agriculture and industrial development. The central government would retain authority over foreign policy, defense and taxation and could veto any local legislative act it disapproved.

It is a bold move which could quiet discontent for a time, but it also can be interpreted as a sign of weakness to be accepted only as an temporary lull in the drive for full independence.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Dec. 24, the 359th day of 1976. There are seven days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1814, the United States and England signed the Treaty of Ghent in Belgium, ending the War of 1812.

On this date:

In 1650, Edinburgh Castle in Scotland surrendered to the forces of Oliver Cromwell.

In 1865, a secret order called the Ku Klux Klan was organized in Pulaski, Tenn.

In 1942, the French administrator in North Africa, Admiral Jéan Darlan, was assassinated in Algiers during World War II.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt announced that General Dwight Eisenhower would command Allied forces in the coming invasion of Europe.

In 1968, the U.S. Apollo 8 astronauts sent back to earth a Christmas Eve prayer for peace as they orbited the moon.

Ten years ago: Just before a Christmas truce went into effect in Vietnam, North Vietnamese shore gunners scored their first direct hits on an American warship.

Five years ago: Christian Democrat Giovanni Leone was elected President of Italy.

One year ago: Pope Paul VI ended the 1975 Roman Catholic Holy Year by sealing the Holy Door of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

Today's birthday: Choreographer and ballet company director Robert Joffrey is 46.

Thought for today: Christmas is the season when people run out of money before they run out of friends. — Anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, General George Washington's Army in Bucks County, Pa., was issued a three-day supply of ammunition and supplies to march to the Delaware River, across from British forces in New Jersey.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband is extremely nervous and suffers from fatigue at the end of the day. I'm sure it's anemia, but he won't listen. Is there any kind of tonic or iron for anemia that I could urge him to take?

Mrs. C. Y., Neb.

Dear Mrs. Y.:

Your homemade diagnosis of anemia is leading you into a state of "medical" confusion. Before you base your husband's symptoms on your own diagnosis he should be urged, more sensibly, to seek the advice of a physician.

Even though extreme fatigue and nervousness may be related to anemia, many other physical and psychological problems should first be eliminated.

A simple blood test takes the guesswork out of the definite diagnosis of anemia. If an iron deficiency anemia is present, replacement of iron by tablet, and be eating nourishing foods high in iron, will rectify it.

Expensive tonics and vitamin supplements are no more beneficial than inexpensive iron tablets and an improved diet. The expensive ones can cause an anemia of the pocketbook, which can only lead to increased nervousness of those who must pay for them!

Can you tell me something about the stripping method for varicose veins of the legs?

Mrs. G. W. A., Mich.

Dear Mrs. A.:

"Stripping" is one of a number of techniques used for the treatment of varicose veins.

Under anesthesia, a long wire is threaded into the veins. The vein is then stripped, almost like the "snake" technique that electricians use to bring wire from one room to another.

This stripping method is not recommended in all cases of varicose veins. The choice of a particular type of operation is made by the surgeon after carefully evaluating the patient's individual problem.

In some instances, injection techniques are first tried. The standard surgical procedure of removing varicose veins is also considered. This is known as "cutting and ligation." It has served for many years as an effective method of bringing relief to patients burdened by the problems of varicose veins.

Letters To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In this year of 1976, when we have celebrated the Birth of this Nation, we should reflect, perhaps, on America's dependence and recognition of God, made flesh in His Son, our Lord Jesus Christ, as His birthday approaches.

In 1968, merely 8 years ago, on Christmas Eve fifty million people around the world were glued to their television and radio sets, watching and listening as three bold astronauts made man's first trip around the moon. In a typically American twang, a voice from outer space went through the stillness of the night to read the first verse of Genesis: "In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth."

Then another voice, and another, rang through the air as each of the three took his turn in reading the first ten verses of the Bible. They ended: "And God called the dry land Earth; and the gathering together of the waters called the Seas: and God saw that it was good."

And then... "And from the crew of Apollo 8 we close with good night, good luck, and Merry Christmas and God bless all of you - all of you on the good earth."

Christmas Eve 1968 was a memorable night in the history of mankind.

Let us go back to the Christmas Eve of 1776. One of the most impressive scenes in American history is that of George Washington, praying on his knees in the snow at Valley Forge, at a time when the future of our fledgling nation seemed at its lowest ebb.

Suffering along with his soldiers, his example of prayer and faith encouraged them to keep the spark of Revolution alive at its most discouraging point.

With his great faith in God, we have the scene of General Washington crossing the Delaware River on Christmas Eve of 1776, with his starved, cold, and ragged troops going to the battle what was, perhaps, the turning point of victory for the beginning of America. Another memorable Christmas Eve in the history of mankind.

Now let us turn back the clock nearly 500 years, to another explorer in another memorable time, equally bold in his probing of the unknown. He did not have radio or television through which to communicate his feelings, but he did have a pen, and as his little craft was tossed by Atlantic swells, he wrote, on Christmas Eve in his ship Log: "Let Christ rejoice on earth." The author of those words was Christopher Columbus, who credited his exploits to a belief in Divine Guidance as he sailed westward toward the New World in his second great voyage.

It is time for us, now, to go back in time, to that very first Christmas Eve, over 2,000 years ago.

Outside of the village of Bethlehem, that first Christmas Eve, were shepherds guarding their flocks of sheep.

It probably was no farther than from Haynes to Laurelville where their fields lay.

It began no differently from a thousand and one other nights that the shepherds had spent under the stars. Darkness had fallen on a cold, crisp night. The flocks had been gathered, and watch was being kept to protect them from the constant threat of roving wolves or marauding bandits. These men followed the same routine for countless generations. Like most of the people of Palestine, they were poor and insignificant men, from all outward appearances.

But this night proved to be different — radically different. The dull routine of their lives was suddenly and dramatically shattered by the appearance of an angel. The message he brought was one for which the Jewish people had long waited: "Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

The rest of the story has been told and retold every time men and women have paused to remember the story of Christmas. The angel was joined by a multitude of angels praising God: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." Immediately afterward the shepherds left to go to Bethlehem, and found the young infant lying in a feeding trough in a stable. Filled with the certainty that this was the promised Messiah of God, the shepherds told everyone they met about the birth of the Christ child.

What an amazing story! The birth of the Son of God — announced by the Christmas angels — to a group of humble shepherds!

So it is not strange that it was an angel, joined by a host of angels, who first announced the birth of the Messiah when the infant was actually born in Bethlehem. No other event in history would touch the lives of so many people, or effect so profoundly the course of human history. The birth of the Christ child was worthy of the angels!

It is not strange that angels were used to announce the birth of God's Son. What is strange is that the angelic hosts were sent, not to King Herod or Caesar or the high priest, but to a group of poor humble shepherds in the rural hillside of Judea. Why? Because the good news about Jesus "shall be to all people" — rich and poor, educated and uneducated, powerful and powerless.

On His Birthday

By JIM BISHOP

Silent Night... Street lamps swing in the night wind. Rhinestones gleam yellow and red on sheaves of snow. There is a solemn silence, as though the world is holding its breath.

Trees wear ermine on their arms. Boots crunch and squeak in the drifts. Somewhere, there is the sound of sleighbells and the muffled thud of hoofs. The night sky is an indigo vault, pale on the edges. A billion stars wink like Christmas tree lights.

Holy Night... Before the moment of dawn, there is the smell of wood smoke. This is the only occasion when time hangs still between tick and tock. This is the interval when the infant Jesus was born. His mother bathed Him and wrapped Him warm against the chill of Bethlehem. The tiny legs moved up and down and He uttered His first cry.

It is the rule of God that as her suffering ended, His began. Dawn is special on Christmas Day. The great blue star in the East fights the rising rays of pale blue and yellow and pink. It flashes color onto fleecy clouds and tosses long blankets of blue shadows on the snow.

All Is Calm... Most of all, it is a children's dawn. Sleepy-heads tumble out of bed as the rising sun studies its reflection in a billion windows. It is a time of happy cries; of apple cheeks and little faces with thumbs stuck in them.

It is kisses and shouts of "Merry Christmas." It is a green tree laden with colored ornaments. It is candy and apples and nuts in stockings. Most of all, it is happy surprises: a doll, a train, a football, a mitt, a doll house, skates, a sled, games.

All Is Bright... It is also His birthday. Light streams in colored bands in churches where hosts of people say "Happy Birthday" in many languages and in many ways. A choir swells the old story to the skies — the birth, the star, the adoration, the magi.

Thick white flakes fall lazily. Little tongues are out to taste them. Boys play in mittens and stocking hats. A little girl visits all the neighbors, both hands stuck in a new fur muff. Strangers smile at strangers.

It is a day of cooking smells and white linen tablecloths. A day for slender glasses with stems and the ruby flash of port wine. A day for crackling log fires and a busted wind-up toy.

'Round yon Virgin, Mother and Child

College students are back home in their own bedrooms. Adults crowd the kitchen with gossip. There are creamed onions and gilet gravy and candied yams and a turkey shining in its own juices. It is pfefferneusse and oranges and candy canes and hot toddies. It is new robes and wallets and tied and shirts and pocketbooks, tennis racquets and a fancy putter. It is warm hearts and cold bathrooms and a clutch at the heart remembering who isn't here. It is giving and getting and loving and forgiving and remembering and forgetting.

Holy Infant So Tender and Mild... It is snowballs in flight and runny noses. Steamy plumes from farm horses and someone reading aloud, "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

It's a chemistry set, a manger, building blocks and television. It is a well-fed old man snoring in a chair.

It is also unexpected visits, a little stomach in cramps, the women straightening the living room every hour. It is a late bronze sun and automobiles which will not start.

NEW YORK (AP) — Look at it this way: You've gone through the worst of the planning and spending and you've survived, so now try to immerse yourself in the spirit of Christmas. Sit back and enjoy it.

The litter of wrappings and packing materials will get cleaned up, somehow, and, somehow, you'll get the bills paid. You've always managed to do that and you've survived. There's a fair chance you will again.

And you'll even regain some of your zest for life if you think of all the little gifts that might be spread in your path during the coming days and weeks. Like a little tax cut or a rebate.

Don't be cynical. Sure the money's yours anyway; we agree, it never did belong to the government, which we all know doesn't have a nickel to its name except what it grabs from you and me. But be happy with small joys.

Right after Christmas, you should keep in mind, there are all sorts of bargains to be had. So you don't have any money to spend, but you've got credit, haven't you? Credit is useless if unused.

You're still unconvinced? Then why do you think all those merchants advertise as they do? They want you to buy. They want you to possess. They want you to do your bit to keep this economy moving and producing jobs for your fellow man.

You can look forward to your New Year's resolutions, too. Next year is the year when all the nonsense stops and you become the person you really know you're capable of being: successful, well paid, admired, free of Sleep in Heavenly Peace... And, lest we forget, it is also wrong sizes, a leaden sky, a busy telephone, a roof weeping icicles, and small bottles of perfume. It is a fat puppy looking up at his new owner and wetting the rug. It is early darkness, bowls of fruit and Christmas cards.

It is little nighties much too long and lighted candles in the window which grow brighter as the sun goes down. There is a silent glance of understanding between a mother and a father. One more Christmas.

It is a sink full of dishes and a copy of "Little Women." It is a tree in tilt with a lighted star on top. It is a day on which to medicate, to wonder at the enigmatic story of life itself. A day for giving a small gift to Him.

debt. If you're smart, and you are, you'll plan right now to take a little, inexpensive break in the routine for one of those mid-February vacations your friends seem to manage. You're right; it'll make you a better person.

And think of the way the house is going to look next year. Interest rates are less usurious now and the banks are pushing money, so a small loan makes sense. The place will look handsome with a new roof, paint job and interior decoration. Perhaps even a swimming pool.

You could even imagine a case for the stock market rising in 1977, pumping some life into those shares you bought on margin back in the 1960s — "Here are a couple of really live ones," said the salesman — and which have lain unresponsive as mummies ever since.

Christmas Eve magic makes anything possible. Look into the ornaments and see your future: The long-delayed pay raise, the new sense of security, the transition of the kids from adolescent spendthrifts to income producers, if only part-time.

All this is possible on Christmas Eve, amid the red and green lights, if you just sit back and relax and soak up the spirit.

Do it now, because on the day after the spirit disappears into a sea of red ink, and all the green stuff you need to refloat yourself will have been left behind, far back in those dreams.

But don't be vanquished. You've survived in the past and, as we said, there's a fighting chance you can again.

Grinch Gets Newspaper

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The weekly newspaper here nearly drew a blank on the biggest theft story of the year: someone stole its entire Christmas news report.

The Mirror came out Wednesday with a six-page edition that was blank except for advertising and a notice explaining that all the news and photos were stolen somewhere between typesetting and the press.

"It was the Christmas edition. It was all nice stories and Christmassy things," said Mirror editor Lico Costinni. "There was no blood and guts — mostly human interest."

The news copy was delivered earlier in the week to the composing firm, Omnigraphics of Northridge, but the photocopying veloxes, which were to be used for making the press plates, were apparently stolen from a mail drop at the Omnigraphics office sometime Tuesday, Costinni said.

The nearly blank pages were run off the presses Wednesday afternoon at the Sunland-Tujunga Record-Ledger, where an astonished pressman exclaimed, "There was nothing on the page!"

Police said no theft report had been filed and they had no idea where to look for the thief.

A Page Of Opinion

Britain has reached such a deteriorated state that its Labor Party leaders apparently are more inclined to excise the problems rather than confront them. How that approach will work in the case of Scotland and Wales soon may be seen.

The party's leader in the House of Commons, Michael Foot, has proposed a "Devolution Bill" to give the Scots and Welsh semi-autonomy over their affairs, but only to a point. That point is where the trouble may come.

Residents of Scotland and Wales have become increasingly vocal in recent years over insistence upon independence from the mother country. Foot's plan, quite frankly acknowledged, is to give the two members of the United Kingdom just enough local autonomy to keep them from clamoring for a total break.

Under the plan, legislative power would be granted the Scots and Welsh over such matters as education, local government, housing, agriculture and industrial development. The central government would retain authority over foreign policy, defense and taxation and could veto any local legislative act it disapproved.

It is a bold move which could quiet discontent for a time, but it also can be interpreted as a sign of weakness to be accepted only as at emporary lull in the drive for full independence.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Dec. 24, the 359th day of 1976. There are seven days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1814, the United States and England signed the Treaty of Ghent in Belgium, ending the War of 1812.

On this date:

In 1650, Edinburgh Castle in Scotland surrendered to the forces of Oliver Cromwell.

In 1865, a secret order called the Ku Klux Klan was organized in Pulaski, Tenn.

In 1942, the French administrator in North Africa, Admiral Jeann Darlan, was assassinated in Algiers during World War II.

In 1943, President Franklin Roosevelt announced that General Dwight Eisenhower would command Allied forces in the coming invasion of Europe.

In 1968, the U.S. Apollo 8 astronauts sent back to earth a Christmas Eve prayer for peace as they orbited the moon.

Ten years ago: Just before a Christmas truce went into effect in Vietnam, North Vietnamese shore gunners scored their first direct hits on an American warship.

Five years ago: Christian Democrat Giovanni Leone was elected President of Italy.

One year ago: Pope Paul VI ended the 1975 Roman Catholic Holy Year by sealing the Holy Door of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome.

Today's birthday: Choreographer and ballet company director Robert Joffrey is 46.

Thought for today: Christmas is the season when people run out of money before they run out of friends. — Anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, General George Washington's Army in Bucks County, Pa., was issued a three-day supply of ammunition and supplies to march to the Delaware River, across from British forces in New Jersey.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband is extremely nervous and suffers from fatigue at the end of the day. I'm sure it's anemia, but he won't listen. Is there any kind of tonic or iron for anemia that I could urge him to take?

Mrs. C. Y., Neb.

Dear Mrs. Y.:
Your homemade diagnosis of anemia is leading you into a state of "medical" confusion. Before you base your husband's symptoms on your own diagnosis he should be urged, more sensibly, to seek the advice of a physician.

Even though extreme fatigue and nervousness may be related to anemia, many other physical and psychological problems should first be eliminated.

A simple blood test takes the guesswork out of the definite diagnosis of anemia. If an iron deficiency anemia is present, replacement of iron by tablet, and eating nourishing foods high in iron, will rectify it.

Expensive tonics and vitamin supplements are no more beneficial than inexpensive iron tablets and an improved diet. The expensive ones can cause an anemia of the pocketbook, which can only lead to increased nervousness of those who must pay for them!

Can you tell me something about the stripping method for varicose veins of the legs?

Mrs. G. W. A., Mich.

Dear Mrs. A.:
"Stripping" is one of a number of techniques used for the treatment of varicose veins.

Under anesthesia, a long wire is threaded into the veins. The vein is then stripped, almost like the "snake" technique that electricians use to bring wire from one room to another.

This stripping method is not recommended in all cases of varicose veins. The choice of a particular type of operation is made by the surgeon after carefully evaluating the patient's individual problem.

In some instances, injection techniques are first tried. The standard surgical procedure of removing varicose veins is also considered. This is known as "cutting and ligation." It has served for many years as an effective method of bringing relief to patients burdened by the problems of varicose veins.

They'll Do It Every Time

Grinch Gets Newspaper

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The weekly newspaper here nearly drew a blank on the biggest theft story of the year: someone stole its entire Christmas news report.

The Mirror came out Wednesday with a six-page edition that was blank except for advertising and a notice explaining that all the news and photos were stolen somewhere between typesetting and the press.

"It was the Christmas edition. It was all nice stories and Christmassy things," said Mirror editor Lico Costinni. "There was no blood and guts — mostly human interest."

Police said no theft report had been filed and they had no idea where to look for the thief.

over 2,000 years ago.

Outside of the village of Bethlehem, that first Christmas Eve, were shepherds guarding their flocks of sheep.

It probably was no farther than from Haynes to Laurelville where their fields lay.

It began no differently from a thousand and one other nights that the shepherds had spent under the stars. Darkness had fallen on a cold, crisp night. The flocks had been gathered, and watch was being kept to protect them from the constant threat of roving wolves or marauding bandits. These men followed the same routine for countless generations. Like most of the people of Palestine, they were poor and insignificant men, from all outward appearances.

But this night proved to be different — radically different. The dull routine of their lives was suddenly and dramatically shattered by the appearance of an angel. The message he brought was one for which the Jewish people had long waited: "Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."

The rest of the story has been told and retold every time men and women have paused to remember the story of Christmas. The angel was joined by a multitude of angels praising God: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." Immediately afterward the shepherds left to go to Bethlehem, and found the young infant lying in a feeding trough in a stable. Filled with the certainty that this was the promised Messiah of God, the shepherds told everyone they met about the birth of the Christ child.

What an amazing story! The birth of the Son of God — announced by the Christmas angels — to a group of humble shepherds!

So it is not strange that it was an angel, joined by a host of angels, who first announced the birth of the Messiah when the infant was actually born in Bethlehem. No other event in history would touch the lives of so many people, or effect so profoundly the course of human history. The birth of the Christ child was worthy of the angels!

It is not strange that angels were used to announce the birth of God's Son. What is strange is that the angelic hosts were sent, not to King Herod or Caesar or the high priest, but to a group of poor humble shepherds in the rural hillside of Judea. Why? Because the good news about Jesus "shall be to all people" — rich and poor, educated and uneducated, powerful and powerless.

Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer, at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) I have been considering the purchase of a house I have recently looked at, and would like to acquire it through a GI Loan. What do I do to get this loan?

(A.) First, you must secure a certificate of eligibility. Bring your DD214 to your Veterans Service Office, and we will fill out the necessary papers to secure this for you. Once you have your certificate stating that you are entitled to the GI Loan, we have a list of banks that will accept your GI loan. You select a bank from that list, and from then on, the terms are between you and the bank.

(Q.) I think I have lost my discharge, report of separation papers from the Military Service. I can't seem to find them any where. Is this very important, or doesn't it matter, as long as the Government has a copy? If it is important that I should have them, what can I do to get another copy?

(A.) Your Veterans Service Officer can help you secure another DD214. And, yes, it is very important that you have and protect these papers. If you might need a claim filed, or try to secure some benefit you are entitled to, it would have to wait until your necessary DD214 had been returned to you, which could delay everything.

(Q.) I am receiving a VA Pension. I am over 72 years old, and no longer file an income questionnaire. This year, my wife and I have had very large medicine and doctor bills, that have not been paid for through any insurance company. I understand that the VA will reimburse this money spent out for myself and my wife. Is this true?

(A.) Most definitely. You gather up all your bills; doctor, dentist, hospital, medicine, x-rays, eye glasses, hearing aids, etc. and take the total of these bills to your Veterans Service Officer. He will fill out the necessary form to secure your reimbursement.

(Q.) Is it true that a veteran must be a welfare recipient to get into a VA Hospital?

(A.) It most definitely is not true. Any veteran is eligible to go to a VA Hospital. There is of course, a priority ruling, but any and all veterans are eligible.

(Q.) Does the VA reduce a veteran's monthly compensation when there are increases in Social Security benefits?

(A.) No. VA does not count any income against compensation for service connected disabilities, including Social Security payments. Income is counted in determining pensions of veterans with non service connected disabilities, however.

Santa Rescues Fire Engine

CINCINNATI (AP) — Passersby had to do a doubletake recently when Santa Claus went driving by in his wrecker with a fire truck in tow.

A suburban Springdale fire department ladder truck became disabled when a driveshaft broke. The local wrecker operator got the call for help during a Christmas party where he was playing Santa Claus.

He arrived at the scene dressed in his red and white suit and proceeded to rescue the fire truck.

Heartfelt Letter Spurs Yule Work

MIDWEST CITY, Okla. (AP) — Some Christmas stories are to remember. This is one.

It comes from the Future Homemakers of America at Midwest City High School. For four years it has warmed them, inspired them. It has, for them, buried the cold din of commercialism beneath the spirit of the season.

It happened because of a letter from a 9-year-old girl named Debbie. She addressed it to Santa Claus and to that other, often-forgotten figure for whom the holiday was named.

So unselfish was Debbie's letter, so elemental in its faith and hope and love, that it propelled a schoolgirls' project into a community endeavor.

In Midwest City, no big newspaper or well-heeled civic group organizes yuletide almsgiving. But a group of 62 young ladies operate out of a high school classroom filled each afternoon with clothes, canned goods and laughter.

And it doesn't end when the tree comes down. The girls follow up their "families" through the year.

"It sounds trite," said their moderator, Marilyn Butler, a bubbly blonde woman with more energy than all her charges combined, "but I believe the girls see the truth of what Christmas is supposed to mean, not just a one-shot deal to make you feel good."

"They've learned how to help their fellow man without damaging his sense of dignity. We know the families we help. By name."

The Future Homemakers, with the agreement of the Post Office, four years ago took on the job of answering the mail addressed to Santa Claus.

It was fun — still is; they haven't given up the project, and still thrill at opening letters addressed like this:

"To Santa Claus. North Pole or South Pole. I can't remember which." Or opening a letter from 8-year-old Melissa, who sent Santa a picture and wanted him to do the same, figuring the ones she sees all look alike and couldn't be the "real" Santa.

Or from Barbara Stevenson, who wanted to get better acquainted: "Wake me at midnight."

Among the letters, each year, are voices like Debbie's, small cries for help — "A blanket" ... "A tree with lights" ... "A job for my mother."

These are the ones the Future Homemakers search out.

The first year they found 16 families. The second, 20. The third, 35. That's about all their resources can manage, 35. They raise money themselves, buy necessities, see to the families' welfare throughout the year.

They ask other groups to help — civic clubs, social clubs — and if anybody is too busy to listen, they can show them Debbie's letter, the letter that started it all.

Here it is. Clip it out. Pin it to the Christmas tree.

"Dear Jesus and Santa Claus, "My name is Debbie and I am 9 years old and I have a little sister Tina she is 3 years old and a new baby brother James he is 3 months old. Jesus tell my little brother hi for me the one you took with you last year. Tell him we still love him and will see him soon and you too Jesus."

"Tell Santa Claus we need food and clothes and bedclothes to keep us warm this winter and our baby brother needs some milk and food and bed clothes too."

"Santa if you have any toys left after all the other kids can we have some. Do you think your sled is big enough to bring us a Christmas tree so it will be a real Christmas for us."

"Jesus tell my little brother merry Christmas for us. Merry Christmas to you too. And Santa, thank you."

"Debbie."

"P.S. And thank you for taking time to listen to me. With all my love. And please Jesus let my uncle get out of prison he is only 19 years old. I will pray tonight and every night that you will answer my letter."

A special recognition was given to Alys Herrman, who was the pianist at Rotary meeting during the first 40 years of the club's existence. Jack Mader is the present pianist at Rotary meetings. David Yates introduced Rev. Henry Walters, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Rev. Walters gave a very timely religious message relating to present day surroundings in the South as compared to the Biblical birth of Christ as seen through the writings of Clarence Jordan. During the election of new officers, Steve Stevenson was elected to the office of Second Vice President, and new to the board of Directors will be Jim Hill and Tom Tootle. Oscar Birchfield, Chairman of the Rotary magazine, urged all members to forsake the television set for a few minutes and read the many fine articles in the Rotarian magazine.

On Books And Activities At The Library

The gifts are wrapped, the cards are mailed, the tree is trimmed! Now's the time to take a breather and visit the Pickaway County Public Library to browse for some good reading. Both the fiction and the non-fiction offers a wide range of choices this week.

New biographies include some very exciting names. For the fans of the Lawrence Welk TV show, the story of his Champagne Lady is a testimony of faith. Norma Zimmer relates how her religious convictions helped her to stardom and happiness in a warm biography titled "Norma."

"Not So Wild A Dream" by Eric Sevareid is being republished. This personal story of youth and war and the American faith is especially enhanced by a new introduction written by the author.

Another Roosevelt son has written about his famous parents. James Roosevelt presents a differing view in his account of the lives of Eleanor and Franklin. "My Parents" is a human story of growing up under a scorching spotlight.

"Evelyn Nesbit And Stanford White" by Michael Mooney is the story of an era. It is a story of love and death in the Gilded Age. It is also a story of New York, the most brilliant city of that age.

Anne Baxter writes with intensity and compassion about 4 years in the Australian outback. "Intermission" is a true tale of her life in this harsh area of Australia with the man she loved. "The Adventures Of Conan Doyle" by Charles Higham shows the creator of Sherlock Holmes to be every bit as fascinating as his famous character. The author of his biography brings the man alive in a complete and fascinating manner.

Dick Gregory's "Up From Nigger" is an exciting drama as the author spans the decade from mid-Sixties to the present, from popular comic to campus prophet. Gregory tells it all with zest and unflinching spirit.

David Weiss is a gifted biographical novelist. "The Venetian" is his fictional account of the life of Titian presented as the recollections of the elderly painter as he remembers his long and colorful Renaissance career.

Drawing upon his own boyhood experiences, Terry Kay has written a novel which recreates the joys, comradeship, turbulence and exhilaration of growing up. "The Year The Lights Came On" involves the reader with the people of a small southern town and the time after WWII when the country seemed innocent.

Star Trek fans are in for a treat! "The Star Trek Reader" by James Blish presents 21 novelized episodes based on the television series.

Dell Shannon has a new Luis Mendoza mystery. "Streets Of Death" sends the sharp Lt. on a chase to solve the muggings of senior citizens.

John Wainwright is a master of the police novel and of the whodunit form. "Square Dance" is sure to keep your interest to the last page.

Running, baseball and tennis are represented in the new sports titles. "Baseball My Way" by Joe Morgan is a comprehensive, easy-to-follow, well-illustrated book by the pro who, probably more than anyone active today, is the epitome of the complete ballplayer.

"The Joy Of Running" by Dr.

Thaddeus Kostrubala sheds new light on the effects of slow distance-running on the mind and body of man.

Virginia Kraft offers a complete book of instruction for the average man or woman interested in tennis. "Tennis Instruction For Fun And Competition" is her own secret for success.

New hobby books include: The Complete Book of 35 MM Photography" by Jerry Yulsman; "The Macrame Book" by Helene Bress; "Gifts From Your Kitchen" from BHG; "Walt Disney Characters Needlepoint Book" by Lisbeth Perrone; "Book Of Quilt Making" by Vera Guild; "Creative Crafts And Stitchery" from BHG.

Add some Avalon romances and you have a good choice for holiday reading. Merry Christmas from all of the staff to all of you.

Man Hurt Hunting

Russell L. Stuller, 31, 529 Tower Court, was admitted to Berger Hospital for observation after he was shot in the groin while hunting.

Only one pellet of number 6 shot from a 12 gauge shotgun struck Stuller, according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff William Carmean.

Stuller was hunting with Jim and Dave Huffer, Route 2, on Immell Road land farmed by Don Davis about 10 a.m. Thursday.

Stuller apparently climbed atop a pile of brush to flush out rabbits when he was accidentally struck by the stray shot.

Thieves took about 20 gallons of gasoline from three buses owned by the People's Faith Chapel Church, Route 1.

The culprits cut the rubber gas hose on one of the buses which was equipped with a locking type gas cap, removed the metal clamp from another, and drained the tank of a third.

ROTARY SINGERS — Carl Leist led a group of "volunteer" singers at the weekly Rotary meeting Thursday. A special recognition was given to Alys Herrman, who was the pianist at Rotary meeting during the first 40 years of the club's existence. Jack Mader is the present pianist at Rotary meetings. David Yates introduced Rev. Henry Walters, pastor of the Presbyterian Church. Rev. Veterans Questions Answered

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions and answers are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information concerning his Veterans Administration benefits should contact the Veterans Service Officer, at 219 South Court Street.

(Q.) I have been considering the purchase of a house I have recently looked at, and would like to acquire it through a GI Loan. What do I do to get this loan?

(A.) First, you must secure a certificate of eligibility. Bring your DD214 to your Veterans Service Office, and we will fill out the necessary papers to secure this for you. Once you have your certificate stating that you are entitled to the GI Loan, we have a list of banks that will accept your GI loan. You select a bank from that list, and from then on, the terms are between you and the bank.

(Q.) I think I have lost my discharge, report of separation papers from the Military Service. I can't seem to find them anywhere. Is this very important, or doesn't it matter, as long as the Government has a copy? If it is important that I should have them, what can I do to get another copy?

(A.) Your Veterans Service Officer can help you secure another DD214. And, yes, it is very important that you have and protect these papers. If you might need a claim filed, or try to secure some benefit you are entitled to, it would have to wait until your necessary DD214 had been returned to you, which could delay everything.

(Q.) I am receiving a VA Pension. I am over 72 years old, and no longer file an income questionnaire. This year, my wife and I have had very large medicine and doctor bills, that have not been paid for through any insurance company. I understand that the VA will reimburse this money spent out for myself and my wife. Is this true?

(A.) Most definitely. You gather up all your bills; doctor, dentist, hospital, medicine, x-rays, eye glasses, hearing aids, etc. and take the total of these bills to your Veterans Service Officer. He will fill out the necessary form to secure your reimbursement.

(Q.) Is it true that a veteran must be a welfare recipient to get into a VA Hospital?

(A.) It most definitely is not true. Any veteran is eligible to go to a VA Hospital. There is of course, a priority ruling, but any and all veterans are eligible.

(Q.) Does the VA reduce a veteran's monthly compensation when there are increases in Social Security benefits?

(A.) No. VA does not count any income against compensation for service connected disabilities, including Social Security payments. Income is counted in determining pensions of veterans with non service connected disabilities, however.

Santa Rescues Fire Engine

CINCINNATI (AP) — Passersby had to do a doubletake recently when Santa Claus went driving by in his wrecker with a fire truck in tow.

A suburban Springdale fire department ladder truck became disabled when a driveshaft broke. The local wrecker operator got the call for help during a Christmas party where he was playing Santa Claus.

He arrived at the scene dressed in his red and white suit and proceeded to rescue the fire truck.

Heartfelt Letter Spurs Yule Work

MIDWEST CITY, Okla. (AP) — Some Christmas stories are to be remembered. This is one.

It comes from the Future Homemakers of America at Midwest City High School. For four years it has warmed them, inspired them. It has, for them, buried the cold din of commercialism beneath the spirit the season seeks.

It happened because of a letter from a 9-year-old girl named Debbie. She addressed it to Santa Claus and to that other, often-forgotten figure for whom the holiday was named.

So unselfish was Debbie's letter, so elemental in its faith and hope and love, that it propelled a schoolgirls' project into a community endeavor.

In Midwest City, no big newspaper or well-heeled civic group organizes yuletide almsgiving. But a group of 62 young ladies operate out of a high school classroom filled each afternoon with clothes, canned goods and laughter.

And it doesn't end when the tree comes down. The girls follow up their "families" through the year.

"It sounds trite," said their moderator, Marilyn Butler, a bubbly blonde woman with more energy than all her charges combined, "but I believe the girls see the truth of what Christmas is supposed to mean, not just a one-shot deal to make you feel good."

"They've learned how to help their fellow man without damaging his sense of dignity. We know the families we help. By name."

The Future Homemakers, with the agreement of the Post Office, four years ago took on the job of answering the mail addressed to Santa Claus.

It was fun — still is; they haven't given up the project, and still thrill at opening letters addressed like this:

"To Santa Claus. North Pole or South Pole. I can't remember which." Or opening a letter from 8-year-old Melissa, who sent Santa a picture and wanted him to do the same, figuring the ones she sees all look alike and couldn't be the "reel" Santa.

Or from Barbara Stevenson, who wanted to get better acquainted: "Wake me at midnight."

Among the letters, each year, are voices like Debbie's, small cries for help — "A blanket" ... "a tree with lights" ... "a job for my mother."

These are the ones the Future Homemakers search out.

The first year they found 16 families. The second, 20. The third, 35. That's about all their resources can manage, 35. They raise money themselves, buy necessities, see to the families' welfare throughout the year.

prison he is only 19 years old. I will pray tonight and every night that you will answer my letter."

Wedding Vows Exchanged In Good Shepherd Church

MR. AND MRS. RICHARD A. ANGLES

Miss Judith A. Weaver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Weaver, 385 Eva Drive, and Mr. Richard A. Angles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Angles, 280 Edwards Road, were united in marriage 2:30 p.m., Dec. 4.

The Rev. Eugene Flowers performed the double ring ceremony before the altar in Good Shepherd United Methodist Church. In front of the altar table, flanked with candles, were two white satin bows, was placed a small linen covered table holding the unity candle lit by the couple during the ceremony. A decorated Christmas tree, wreaths on the wall and an arrangement of white mums, miniature white and red carnations and greenery surrounding the candle completed the decorations.

Mrs. Polly Jane Thomas, pianist, presented a program of nuptial selections preceding the ceremony.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride was given in marriage by her father and mother. For her wedding she selected a formal length gown fashioned of white scalloped chantilly lace. The full tiered skirt flowed into a chapel train and the bodice featured a scalloped Sabrina neckline and long sleeves ending in bridal points over her hands. The bride's cathedral length veil of silk illusion was edged in lace and caught to a lace cap. She carried a colonial bouquet of red and white carnations, baby's breath, holly berries and greenery tied with white satin ribbons forming streamers. Her only jewelry was a pearl necklace belonging to her grandmother.

The bride and bridegroom each presented their mother a long stemmed white carnation following the ceremony.

Miss Rebecca Connolly was maid of honor in a full length gown of green flowered voile on an ivory background with a deep flounce at the bottom of the skirt. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a bouquet of white carnations tipped in green, baby's breath and holly berries backed with fern and tied with white satin ribbons.

Mr. Robert Cullums performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Jim Weaver and Mr. Dan Weaver, brothers of the bride.

The bride's mother was attired in a light brown knit street length dress trimmed with black. Her corsage of white carnations was tied with a gold ribbon.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a light blue bonded knit dress. Her corsage was of white carnations tied with blue ribbon.

A reception in the Service Center of the church immediately followed the ceremony. The three tiered wedding cake was decorated in red bows and miniature carnations, white bells and swans, and topped with the traditional bride and bridegroom figures emerging from a large white bell. The bride's bouquet added to the table decorations.

Hostesses were Mrs. William Goff, Miss Lori Goff and Miss Jodi Goff. Presiding at the guestbook was Miss Lisa Goff, and Miss Billie Goff distributed red and white lace rice bags to the guests.

The bride is a 1975 graduate of Circleville High School and is employed at Circle Plastics Inc.

The bridegroom, also a 1975 graduate of Circleville High School, graduated from Lincoln Technical Institute of Indianapolis, Ind. in 1976. He is employed at Clifton Motor Sales Inc.

Honored guests at the wedding were grandmothers, Mrs. William H. Strawser and Mrs. Clyde Angles, great-grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hamp, and a great-aunt, Miss Elva Weaver.

Out-of-town guests were from Jackson, Grove City, Chillicothe, Columbus, Pataskala, Kingston, Bainbridge and Hallsville.

Pre-nuptial showers were given by Becky Connolly and employees of Circleville Plastics to honor the couple.

Crusaders Class Christmas Dinner

The Crusaders Class of the Circleville Church of the Nazarene met recently at Wardell's Party Home for their annual Christmas dinner. Invocation was given by Sunday School Superintendent Dick Anderson.

After the dinner secret friends of 1976 were revealed by the exchanging of gifts and new names were drawn for 1977. The class president, Harold Landis, presented a gift from the group to the teacher, Mrs. James Sargent. Class officers were elected for the coming year. After a group game Mrs. David Caudill gave a reading followed by Sam Stimpert leading the class in the singing of Christmas carols.

Others present were: the Rev. and Mrs. William Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Don Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lutz, Mr. and Mrs. Orville West, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sipes, Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Holbrook, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Hoagland, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dowden, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Conrad, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Harl Stevenson.

Mrs. Sam Stimpert, Mrs. Ronald Dowden, Mrs. Harold Landis, Mrs. Melvin Disbennett, Mrs. Darrell Thompson, Mrs. Marlin Snyder, Mrs. Dick Anderson, Mrs. Pat Manson, Mrs. Ethel Grooms, Mrs. Goldie Lindsey, Mrs. Marie Sowers, Mrs. Martha Curry, Jim Sowers, Dawson Park, David Caudill and Jim Sargent.

Guild 20 Has Christmas Party

Berger Hospital Guild 20 held its Christmas meeting Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Mary Walker, 4610 McLean Mill Road. Mrs. Etha Mae Wolford, Mrs. Annie Mowery and Mrs. Mabel Poling were assisting hostesses.

Following a brief business session, a gift exchange was held. Favors of red tree ornaments was given each one present. Cookies, punch and coffee were served by the hostesses.

Present for the evening were: Mary Hamilton, Katherine Tadlock, Eloise Dunkel, Jean Thompson, Olive Hettinger, Marie Gibson, Joan Dawson, Freida Hulse, Margaret Evans, Annabelle Mowery, Ann Short, Dot Justus, Ruth Croman, Cressie Hall, Frances Rose, Tillie Peck, Sue Walker, Mabel Poling, Annie Mowery, Etha Mae Wolford, and Mary Walker.

Hostesses for the January meeting will be Ruth Croman and Annabelle Mowery.

Bridge Club Winners Named

Winners of the semi-monthly Friday afternoon bridge game held at the YMCA, were: 1. Phyllis Johnson and Margaret Knox; 2. Lorraine Kay and Frances Turner; 3. Gloria Sayre and Mary Jane Skinner.

Refreshments in keeping with the holiday season were served by Gloria Sayre and Mary Jane Skinner.

There will not be a game on Jan. 7, as the Central Ohio Bridge Association will have its Buckeye Sectional Tournament in Columbus, Jan. 7-10. The next Friday afternoon game will be Jan. 21 at 12:30 p.m. at the Y.

Strip Mine Stand Taken

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Strip mining of western coal will be allowed by the Carter administration only where the stripped land can be restored and when accompanied by adequate environmental statements, says Interior Secretary-designate Cecil Andrus.

Andrus, who is governor of Idaho and whose U.S. Senate confirmation hearings will begin in mid-January, made the comments on a live interview program at Boise television station KTVB.

Vast tracts of coal, most of them best suited to strip-mining, lie under the plains of Wyoming, Montana and the Dakotas. Other western states, such as Utah, have deeper veins that must be dug underground.

Carl Bagge, president of the National Coal Association, told Andrus "My only hope is that with a Western governor, we can straighten out an apparent Carter Administration tilt against development of western coal."

Andrus replied: "I think in the future you will see some use of western low-sulfur coal, but only in those instances where you have an adequate environmental impact statement, and you have a reclamation plan that will resolve the problems."

"But if he's implying that they can come in and just take it where they please and leave it like they have some of the other areas of the United States in past years, no, he's mistaken," Andrus added.

Rockefeller Center Tree

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — Forty-five years ago this night, life was earnest and times were hard.

It was Christmas Eve, 1931. Deep Depression. Turkey dinners and little tin toys could be bought for little more than a song, but hundreds of thousands of Americans couldn't afford them at any price. And didn't feel like singing, either. It was an off-year for Santa Claus. There was no man who had everything, in 1931.

That night a group of workmen gathered together at an enormous hole in the ground off Fifth Avenue in New York City. It was almost midnight.

They pitched in a few pennies, nickels and dimes, and the foreman of the crew and an assistant walked west a few blocks and bartered their small coin collection for a 15-foot Christmas tree.

They hauled it back to the construction sight - the great hole in the ground they had dug out, on which a building was to be erected, and stuck the tree in the ground. They decorated it with little pieces of colored paper. While they stomped their feet on the crusted mud, to keep warm, they sang carols.

That relatively flimsy, paper-trimmed, unlighted, 15-foot monarch of the forest was the first Rockefeller Center Christmas tree.

The tradition was begun before the building.

Since that day, executives at Rockefeller Center annually begin searching for a newer and greater tree specimen each year. They employ a Coordinator of Christmas Activities, who begins the quest for another tree literally on the first working day after Christmas.

Often, more than 100 rangers are on the lookout for the right tree. It's not an easy job, because Center trees rarely come from the forests. In a forest, trees grow high but they grow lean. For Rockefeller Center, which is 800 feet tall and a block wide, there must be a tree that has not only stature but fullness; a free-standing giant of perfect proportions, where every branch has had equal access to sun and wind.

Usually by summer, the potential Rockefeller Center tree has been narrowed down to a few beauties. They are judged as scrupulously as Miss America contestants.

When the final selection is made, it is typically a natural perfection in fir: between 65 and 90 feet tall, weighing up to five tons, more than 80 years old.

Then comes the problem of transporting the tree from its natural estate to the heart of the city.

The job is meticulously handled by men who know this most specialized task in the world.

There are a few men who hoisted every Center tree for more than a quarter of a century. Only they were allowed to cart it through tunnels and traffic, hoist it from truck to platform at Rockefeller Plaza, and raise it by a 75-foot crane into upright position.

Everyone who has worked very long in Rockefeller Center becomes emotionally attached to each tree-of-the-year. Each is different. But all are old and majestic.

It is sad, when finally they are taken down in January, to realize that their life is ended.

Ah, but what a way to pass on - as the most honored and famous Christmas tree on earth!

Several "Santa Clauses" can be found within a two-block radius of Rockefeller Center. And for one little girl, for a few moments, one of them must have been a tragic sight.

The child was about five judging from the amount of her that showed between the rubber boots and a white plush hood that curled around her face. As she stood on Fifth Avenue and 47th Street, she was transfixed by the vision of a Santa, clinging to an iron bell with one hand and a brown cane with the other. Unlike the ample, hearty indoor Clauses, this Santa was limping across the avenue, feebly by arthritis or age or too much contact with a hectic world.

There was pain on his face. But no more pain than on the little girl's as she watched him.

Finally he reached the corner where she and her mother stood. He looked at her, but did not smile or say ho-ho-ho or lean down to reassure her that all was well at the North Pole.

The girl's mother suddenly bent down and I heard her say softly, "I think I read about Santa in the newspaper. Blitzen stepped on his toe by accident, but he'll be all right by tomorrow."

The child looked thoughtfully at the man's brown leather shoes. Then she looked up at his face. Their eyes met, Santa's and the child's. Neither of them smiled.

Then, with all the inherent honesty and innocence and integrity for which youth is famous, the little girl made a memorable observation to her mother

"How about let's go to Bloomingdale's toy department," she said.

New CB Channels Bring Output Woes

by JOHN D. McCLAIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is giving us 17 new Citizens Band channels on New Year's Day, but the CB industry doubts it can provide enough new radios immediately for all who want them.

Last July, the Federal Communications Commission approved expansion of the current 23-channel CB band to 40 channels, effective Jan. 1.

Since then, the industry has been struggling to meet what it figures will be a heavy demand for the new 40-channel sets. Most expect to come up short for some months.

"I think there will be an initial shortage based on several things," says John Sodolski, vice president of the Electronic Industries Association, a trade group.

"One, the FCC will not allow shipping the new 40-channel sets until Jan. 1, and then it will take some days to get them from warehouses to retail outlets.

"Also, the FCC has required new and tighter (anti-interference) standards on these sets and not every manufacturer is qualifying every set in his line. The result is a somewhat narrower selection," compared with the number of 23-channel sets still on the market.

The FCC is committed to complete by Jan. 1 its tests of the more than 400 models submitted by its Nov. 1 deadline. It expects to have approved more than 200 models by year's end.

Manufacturers with FCC approvals of their 40-channel models have geared up their production lines and, in the words of a spokesman for one manufacturer, "We're going like crazy.... We're producing them as fast as we can."

Others, still waiting for FCC approval, have taken a chance and begun production on the assumption they will get the okay in time.

Although Sodolski and other industry spokesmen say no one can forecast with certainty the demand for the new sets, they predict a shortage for at least three months while industry increases its supply.

The 40-channel sets will be priced 15 to 20 per cent over comparable 23-channel models. Some manufacturers have been selling new 23-channel sets meeting the tighter anti-interference specifications with the promise to remanufacture them for a fee after Jan. 1 to permit use of all 40 channels.

With the exception of the additional 17 channels and the tighter specifications, little else is expected to change on the CB band after the first of the year.

Channel 9 will continue to be used only for emergency and motorist-aid uses, and no serious effort has been made to move the truckers-travelers channel from Channel 19.

But the FCC and the CB industry expect the additional channels to relieve some of the congestion now experienced by CBers. A spokesman for one manufacturer said the new 40-channel models "are expected to go over well, particularly in metropolitan areas where the current 23 channels are especially crowded."

Autopsy Slated In Shooting Death

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — An autopsy has been ordered in the death of a 24-year-old West Virginia man who was killed Wednesday in an encounter with Cambridge police, authorities said.

Bethesda Hospital officials in Zanesville identified the victim as Rick Smith, 24, of Fairmont, W.Va.

Authorities said earlier that two policemen noticed an automobile with the engine running in a used car lot. When officers went to investigate, a man ran from the scene. Police said they fired a warning shot in the air, the man turned toward police with a .38 caliber revolver and officers fired.

Hog Output To Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hog farmers plan to continue increasing production this winter but at a slower pace than during most of 1976, according to the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Wednesday that producers intend to have 6.1 million sows give birth to baby pigs from Dec. 1 to next May 30, an increase of 5 per cent from the same period last year. Those could produce a pig crop of 44.3 million head, also up 5 per cent.

This year, between June 1 and Nov. 30, the pig crop was 42.2 million head, up 18 per cent from the same six months of 1975.

As of Dec. 1, the inventory of hogs and pigs so far was estimated at 55.1 million head, up 11 per cent from a year ago, the report said.

The Dec. 1, inventory included eight million hogs being kept back for breeding purposes, up 5 per cent from a year ago, and 47.1 million hogs being fed for market, a 12 per cent increase.

"One, the FCC will not allow shipping the new 40-channel sets until Jan. 1, and then it will take some days to get them from warehouses to retail outlets.

"Also, the FCC has required new and tighter (anti-interference) standards on these sets and not every manufacturer is qualifying every set in his line. The result is a somewhat narrower selection," compared with the number of 23-channel sets still on the market.

The FCC is committed to complete by Jan. 1 its tests of the more than 400 models submitted by its Nov. 1 deadline. It expects to have approved more than 200 models by year's end.

Manufacturers with FCC approvals of their 40-channel models have geared up their production lines and, in the words of a spokesman for one manufacturer, "We're going like crazy.... We're producing them as fast as we can."

Others, still waiting for FCC approval, have taken a chance and begun production on the assumption they will get the okay in time.

Although Sodolski and other industry spokesmen say no one can forecast with certainty the demand for the new sets, they predict a shortage for at least three months while industry increases its supply.

The 40-channel sets will be priced 15 to 20 per cent over comparable 23-channel models. Some manufacturers have been selling new 23-channel sets meeting the tighter anti-interference specifications with the promise to remanufacture them for a fee after Jan. 1 to permit use of all 40 channels.

With the exception of the additional 17 channels and the tighter specifications, little else is expected to change on the CB band after the first of the year.

Channel 9 will continue to be used only for emergency and motorist-aid uses, and no serious effort has been made to move the truckers-travelers channel from Channel 19.

But the FCC and the CB industry expect the additional channels to relieve some of the congestion now experienced by CBers. A spokesman for one manufacturer said the new 40-channel models "are expected to go over well, particularly in metropolitan areas where the current 23 channels are especially crowded."

Autopsy Slated In Shooting Death

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — An autopsy has been ordered in the death of a 24-year-old West Virginia man who was killed Wednesday in an encounter with Cambridge police, authorities said.

Bethesda Hospital officials in Zanesville identified the victim as Rick Smith, 24, of Fairmont, W.Va.

Authorities said earlier that two policemen noticed an automobile with the engine running in a used car lot. When officers went to investigate, a man ran from the scene. Police said they fired a warning shot in the air, the man turned toward police with a .38 caliber revolver and officers fired.

Hog Output To Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hog farmers plan to continue increasing production this winter but at a slower pace than during most of 1976, according to the Agriculture Department.

Officials said Wednesday that producers intend to have 6.1 million sows give birth to baby pigs from Dec. 1 to next May 30, an increase of 5 per cent from the same period last year. Those could produce a pig crop of 44.3 million head, also up 5 per cent.

This year, between June 1 and Nov. 30, the pig crop was 42.2 million head, up 18 per cent from the same six months of 1975.

As of Dec. 1, the inventory of hogs and pigs so far was estimated at 55.1 million head, up 11 per cent from a year ago, the report said.

The Dec. 1, inventory included eight million hogs being kept back for breeding purposes, up 5 per cent from a year ago, and 47.1 million hogs being fed for market, a 12 per cent increase.

Church Salvation For Singer-Alcoholic

by JOE EDWARDS
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Gary S. Paxton had six-digit salaries, fancy cars, huge homes. He also tried to kill himself, wore Salvation Army clothes and spent time in a mental institution.
It's all part of the bittersweet ballad of one of Nashville's top producers of country and gospel music.
As a rock 'n' roll star 15 years ago, his palace of success had trapdoors: mescaline and alcohol. "I was a mess," he said. "I was as low as you could go."
Then, he said, he discovered Jesus Christ. His symbol used to be a drink in hand. Now it's a cross hanging from his neck.
"I've had a lot of highs and lows, 90 per cent of them lows," said Paxton, 37, friendly and talkative.
In 1960, he recorded the million-selling rock hit "Alley Oop" as leader of the Hollywood Argyles. During the next six years, he produced rock hits like "Cherish," "Hurray for Hazel,"

"Sweet Pea," "Honest I Do," "Monster Mash" and "Along Comes Mary."
"Monster Mash" alone earned him $265,000. Most of it went for alcohol.
"By 1962 I'd been rich and broke twice," he recalled.
During hard times he ate at Hollywood parties and church socials. "We'd see a sign at a church and go get in line," he said.
In the late 1960s, he directed a West Coast empire that included two recording studios, a marina, a mountain hotel and house rental business.
"I was making $20,000 a month," he said.
In 1970, he lost everything because of drugs and alcohol. He moved to Nashville, found religion and began polishing his genius for music.
"I was as near dead as you could get," he said during a break in a recording session. "I've been hospitalized in half the towns in the country. I wouldn't eat for a week at a time — I just took dope and drank. I would drink a fifth by noon and drank 24 hours a day for 10 years." He still has a paunch to prove it.

In 1970 he was hospitalized five times — twice for drug overdoses and three times for alcoholism, the last time in a mental institution. He tried suicide "seven or eight times" by slashing his wrists or his chest.
"I bought my clothes at the Salvation Army," he said. "People would be embarrassed when I came around trying to sell a song."
Things changed in September 1971. "My wife (his sixth) and I started driving around one Sunday night. We drove by the Belmont Church of Christ and saw millionaires, blacks and hippies all going in. We decided to go in."
"We started going on Sunday nights, and one night I got saved. I wrote out a confession, and I've never touched anything since. I stopped cold turkey. This shows you how powerful a religious experience can be."

Star Brought Jeannie C. Riley 'Home'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — She had made the big-time, acquiring money, acclaim and lavish living. But it became empty to her and false. The desolation persisted until she saw the star.
By the calendar, it wasn't the Christmas star, but it had to do with a child and it flashed a similar meaning.
"There was no mistaking it," says country music singer Jeannie C. Riley. It was an odd star, on a lonely August afternoon in Texas. It filled the void within her, she says, changed her life and her singing.
A pretty, blue-eyed brunette, she had gained fame as the seemingly brash, hip and uninhibited young woman who ripped into her community's moralisms as hypocritical in her hit song, "Harper Valley PTA."
But it made her a kind of phony herself, she said in an interview. "The world put me into the role of a sassy, showoff sex symbol. It was an image created for me and I hated it, but for a long time I couldn't step out of it, I was so stereotyped."
"I was playing a part that was not really me."

In that period, she said, she had "quit the church, doubted God's existence and thought the Bible was just a big beautiful myth. I simply had never thought much about spiritual things."
But the sudden celebrity status that "Harper Valley" brought, the high income, applauding crowds, high-pressure schedule, including a divorce, and her built-up image as a tart-tongued, miniskirted rebel left her disillusioned.
"I'd achieved my goals but I was miserable," she said. She recalled that as a small-town girl from Anson, Texas, she often had pored over mail-order catalogs, dreaming of fancy clothes, a big house, chauffeured cars, the limelight of attention.
"But it didn't bring happiness," she said. "I knew there had to be something greater, something more. Things began to work on my conscience."
Then a "miracle happened" on that strange afternoon in a Texas cemetery, she said, and "God worked his way into my heart and changed my life."
"It put my family back together," she said, noting that she and her husband have remarried and now live on a farm outside Nashville, Tenn., where she belongs to the Forest Hills Baptist church.

"It's done so much for me. It was a matter of breaking down my pride, of taking my eyes off myself, or making me more concerned for others. It was a rebirth. I'm happy now, happier than I've ever been, and it's for real."

Pair Changes In Fraud Scheme

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Two Morgan County men were arrested by the FBI Wednesday in connection with an alleged scheme to bilk Central Soya Co. Inc., officials said.
They said the scheme was to charge Central Soya for 320,260 pounds of corn and soybeans never delivered.
A federal grand jury indictment charged James R. Jones, 50, owner of Paragon Soil Service Inc., a grain storage firm, and George E. Orebaugh, 38, Rt. 2, Martinsville, with mail fraud and causing false statements to be made concerning grain sales.

Church Briefs

The Rev. Henry A. Walters has selected "A Spent Arrow" as his sermon topic Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church.
"Good News and Bad News" is the topic Pastor Carl Zehner will preach about Sunday at Trinity Lutheran Church.
The Rev. Eugene Purdy has selected "Wise Men Build Bridges" as his sermon topic Sunday at Calvary United Methodist Church.
At 7:30 p.m., Sunday Saltcreek Valley Community Church will hold a special service featuring Herb and Barb Blanton and the Young Gospels from Columbus. At 7:30 p.m. New Year's Eve, a service will be held at the church featuring John Adams from Washington C. H., Leslie Allen from Chillicothe and the Gospel Family from Ironton.

The Rev. William Slagle, a home mission board worker, from Atlanta, Ga., will be the guest speaker Sunday at the Logan Elm Baptist Church. Services are held in the 4-H and Grange Building.
The Rev. David F. Frazer will be preaching at both services Sunday at Community United Methodist Church.

Ohio Pastors Schedule Session

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio pastors convene Jan. 24-26 for their 58th annual session sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.
The session topic is "Life Style-Century III" and features discussions on energy sources, population distribution, genetic control and family relationships, education and mass media.
More than half of the 2.3 billion acres of land in the United States is used to produce crops and livestock, says the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

We had put the last bauble on the tree and hung the children's stockings by the mantel. We had even remembered our newly acquired kitten. Her catnip mouse was adorned with a red ribbon and a small gold bell.
Then suddenly I found myself staring at the wreath in the window. In the center of it, I could see the white church I'd gone to as a child. More often than not at Christmas there was snow on the ground when we went to the services, crisp and crunchy beneath our feet.
I blinked . . . and, when I looked again, the church was gone. But memory's message still remained. I turned to my husband. "There's something else to do," I told him, "if tomorrow is really to be Christmas."

It's all part of the bittersweet ballad of one of Nashville's top producers of country and gospel music. As a rock 'n' roll star 15 years ago, his palace of success had trapdoors: mescaline and alcohol. "I was a mess," he said. "I was as low as you could go." Then, he said, he discovered Jesus Christ. His symbol used to be a drink in hand. Now it's a cross hanging from his neck. "I've had a lot of highs and lows, 90 per cent of them lows," said Paxton, 37, friendly and talkative. In 1960, he recorded the million-selling rock hit "Alley Oop" as leader of the Hollywood Argylees. During the next six years, he produced rock hits like "Cherish," "Hurray for Hazel,"

"Sweet Pea," "Honest I Do," "Monster Mash" and "Along Comes Mary." "Monster Mash" alone earned him $265,000. Most of it went for alcohol. "By 1962 I'd been rich and broke twice," he recalled. During hard times he ate at Hollywood parties and church socials. "We'd see a sign at a church and go get in line," he said. In the late 1960s, he directed a West Coast empire that included two recording studios, a marina, a mountain hotel and house rental business. "I was making $20,000 a month," he said. In 1970, he lost everything because of drugs and alcohol. He moved to Nashville, found religion and began polishing his genius for music. "I was as near dead as you could get," he said during a break in a recording session. "I've been hospitalized in half the towns in the country. I wouldn't eat for a week at a time — I just took dope and drank. I would drink a fifth by noon and drank 24 hours a day for 10 years." He still has a paunch to prove it. In 1970 he was hospitalized five times — twice for drug overdoses and three times for alcoholism, the last time in a mental institution. He tried suicide "seven or eight times" by slashing his wrists or his chest. "I bought my clothes at the Salvation Army," he said. "People would be embarrassed when I came around trying to sell a song." Things changed in September 1971. "My wife (his sixth) and I started driving around one Sunday night. We drove by the Belmont Church of Christ and saw millionaires, blacks and hippies all going in. We decided to go in. "We started going on Sunday nights, and one night I got saved. I wrote out a confession, and I've never touched anything since. I stopped cold turkey. This shows you how powerful a religious experience can be."

Church Briefs

The Rev. Henry A. Walters has selected "A Spent Arrow" as his sermon topic Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church. "Good News and Bad News" is the topic Pastor Carl Zehner will preach about Sunday at Trinity Lutheran Church. The Rev. Eugene Purdy has selected "Wise Men Build Bridges" as his sermon topic Sunday at Calvary United Methodist Church. At 7:30 p.m., Sunday Saltcreek Valley Community Church will hold a special service featuring Herb and

Barb Blanton and the Young Gospels from Columbus. At 7:30 p.m. New Year's Eve, a service will be held at the church featuring John Adams from Washington C. H., Leslie Allen from Chillicothe and the Gospel Family from Ironton. The Rev. William Slagle, a home mission board worker, from Atlanta, Ga., will be the guest speaker Sunday at the Logan Elm Baptist Church. Services are held in the 4-H and Grange Building. The Rev. David F. Frazer will be preaching at both services Sunday at Community United Methodist Church.

Ohio Pastors Schedule Session

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio pastors convene Jan. 24-26 for their 58th annual session sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches. The session topic is "Life Style-Century III" and features discussions on energy sources, population distribution, genetic control and family relationships, education and mass media. More than half of the 2.3 billion acres of land in the United States is used to produce crops and livestock, says the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

Star Brought Jeannie C. Riley 'Home'

AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — She had made the big-time, acquiring money, acclaim and lavish living. But it became empty to her and false. The desolation persisted until she saw the star. By the calendar, it wasn't the Christmas star, but it had to do with a child and it flashed a similar meaning. "There was no mistaking it," says country music singer Jeannie C. Riley. It was an odd star, on a lonely August afternoon in Texas. It filled the void within her, she says, changed her life and her singing. A pretty, blue-eyed brunette, she had gained fame as the seemingly brash, hip and uninhibited young woman who ripped into her community's moralists as hypocritical in her hit song, "Harper Valley P.T.A." But it made her a kind of phony herself, she said in an interview. "The world put me into the role of a sassy, showoff sex symbol. It was an image created for me and I hated it, but for a long time I couldn't step out of it, I was so stereotyped. "I was playing a part that was not really me."

In that period, she said, she had "quit the church, doubted God's existence and thought the Bible was just a big beautiful myth. I simply had never thought much about spiritual things." But the sudden celebrity status that "Harper Valley" brought, the high income, applauding crowds, high-pressure schedule, including a divorce, and her built-up image as a tart-tongued, miniskirted rebel left her disillusioned. "I'd achieved my goals but I was miserable," she said. She recalled that as a small-town girl from Anson, Texas, she often had pored over mail-order catalogs, dreaming of fancy clothes, a big house, chauffeured cars, the limelight of attention. "But it didn't bring happiness," she said. "I knew there had to be something greater, something more. Things began to work on my conscience." Then a "miracle happened" on that strange afternoon in a Texas cemetery, she said, and "God worked his way into my heart and changed my life." "It put my family back together," she said, noting that she and her husband have remarried and now live on a farm outside Nashville, Tenn., where she belongs to the Forest Hills Baptist church. "It's done so much for me. It was a matter of breaking down my pride, of taking my eyes off myself, or making me more concerned for others. It was a rebirth. I'm happy now, happier than I've ever been, and it's for real." Pair Changes In Fraud Scheme INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Two Morgan County men were arrested by the FBI Wednesday in connection with an alleged scheme to bilk Central Soya Co. Inc., officials said. They said the scheme was to charge Central Soya for 320,260 pounds of corn and soybeans never delivered. A federal grand jury indictment charged James R. Jones, 50, owner of Paragon Soil Service Inc., a grain storage firm, and George E. Orebaugh, 38, Rt. 2, Martinsville, with mail fraud and causing false statements to be made concerning grain sales.

We had put the last bauble on the tree and hung the children's stockings by the mantel. We had even remembered our newly acquired kitten. Her catnip mouse was adorned with a red ribbon and a small gold bell.

Then suddenly I found myself staring at the wreath in the window. In the center of it, I could see the white church I'd gone to as a child. More often than not at Christmas there was snow on the ground when we went to the services, crisp and crunchy beneath our feet.

I blinked . . . and, when I looked again, the church was gone. But memory's message still remained. I turned to my husband. "There's something else to do," I told him, "if tomorrow is really to be Christmas."

New Auto Sales At Record Levels

DETROIT (AP) — PreChristmas new domestic car sales hit the second fastest rate in history, the nation's auto industry reported as mid-December sales figures were totaled.

The robust sales announced Thursday for the Dec. 11-20 span provided the first evidence of the 1977-model year that deliveries in the new year would approach the record levels predicted by car executives.

The four U.S. makers sold 223,556 cars in eight selling days for a daily rate of 27,945, up 33 per cent from a year ago, when 189,826 cars were sold in nine days. The daily rate is the industry's yardstick for comparing performances.

The sales record for a mid-December period is 28,553 cars a day, set in 1972.

Previously, fall sales had been running below expectations — even after adjusting for a four-week strike at Ford Motor Co. That prompted some industry officials, citing a temporary pause in the market, to lower their sales targets for 1977.

General Motors Corp., which set a new sales record for the period, led the industry with a 41 per cent gain over year-earlier levels.

Chrysler Corp. was up 36 per cent and Ford Motor Co. 20 per cent, while small-car specialist American Motors Corp. remained in a downturn with an 8 per cent decline.

Sales in the period were more than 20,000 units higher than expected by some industry analysts, who had been overestimating the strength of the market earlier this fall.

"It's too early to say a trend has been established, but we're certainly seeing encouraging signs that 1977 will be a better year than we thought a month ago," said one company analyst.

He said the annual domestic sales rate for the first 20 days of the month was a near record 9.5 million cars, up from 8.2 million in November and 7.7 million in October.

Analysts attributed the sales gains to Ford's continued recovery from its strike, increased small-car interest generated by several cash rebate plans and improving postelection consumer confidence.

Domestic sales for the calendar year through Dec. 20 stood at 8,347,200, up 22 per cent from 6,850,103 last year. GM is up 28 per cent, Ford 14 per cent and Chrysler 31 per cent, while AMC is off 24 per cent from 1975.

Swine Flu Suit Seeks $5.45 Million

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A man who says he became paralyzed from the neck down after receiving a swine flu vaccination is suing four drug manufacturers for $5.45 million.

Wayne Young, 58, a probation and parole officer, "took the swine flu shot and it caused paralysis of his entire body from the neck down.... The doctors have told us that it caused it," his lawyer, Gene Stipe, said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, health officials in Pennsylvania reported that a man there has died of Guillain-Barre Syndrome, bringing to at least eight the number of persons killed by the paralytic disease after receiving swine flu shots.

The possibility of a connection between the shot and the disease caused suspension of the national immunization program on Dec. 16.

Stipe said Young's suit is directed against the four drug companies that shipped swine flu vaccine to Oklahoma. He identified them as Parke-Davis and Co., Merrell-National, Wyeth Laboratories and Merck-Sharp and Dohme.

Stipe said that once proceedings begin in the case in January he expects to determine which of the companies produced the vaccine taken by Young Nov. 5, then drop the other companies from the suit.

Stipe said he mailed the suit to U.S. District Court for the eastern district

Bad Weather Prevalent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Gale warnings were lifted from the central Great Lakes today while the northern half of a cold front moved across the New England coast into the Atlantic ocean.

Locally heavy snow along the New York shore of Lake Ontario caused some travel problems. Strong gusty winds produced blowing and drifting of the snow over western New York. Snow flurries were expected to be occasionally heavy and add another 3 inches of snow to the foot or so already on the ground.

A few snow flurries developed during the evening over the upper Great Lakes and through North Dakota into the east slopes of the northern Rockies.

Showers were scattered over south Texas with rainshowers and occasional thunderstorms spread over much of the Florida peninsula.

Overnight temperatures ranged from 61 at Key West, Fla., to 3 below zero at Alamosa, Colo.

Couple Wed Again; 3rd Time Charm?

CINCINNATI (AP) — After twice failing to stay married to each other, Dallas and Irene Sherman are trying again for a third time.

The couple was married again Thursday, marking another highpoint in their rollercoaster romance which began when they fell in love at age 11.

Since then, there have been three marriages, two children and difficulties which would have finished most couples the first time around.

"You know some people look at us as oddballs," admitted Mrs. Sherman.

"We are," added her husband. "It's a fact of life. We don't have anything to hide. We're going to make it."

"Love can endure all."

In this case, love has endured a great deal.

The first marriage, from 1962 until 1970, was marred by a series of car wrecks by Mrs. Sherman.

"I was young then," she recalled. "There wasn't any way to fight with a man so I took it out on the second closest thing to him, his car."

Married again in 1971, the Shermans encountered their most serious domestic trouble during a quarrel eight months later.

"Irene shot me three times," Sherman said. "Twice in the chest and one in the hand. I thought about it a lot while I was in the hospital and knew that I had pushed her to the breaking point."

He decided not to press charges, but it was too late. Bound over to the grand jury, Mrs. Sherman was convicted of intentional shooting to wound. She spent two days in jail and then was put on probation.

She took advantage of a rehabilitation program to finish high school and entered the University of Cincinnati. She will graduate in June with a degree in psychiatric social work.

Meanwhile, the second marriage,

Four Guys Quickly Attain Opry Goal

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — After singing professionally for only three months, the Four Guys accomplished a goal others spend a lifetime seeking: The group of versatile 6-footers joined the Grand Ole Opry.

That was about 10 years ago. Now the group says it's concentrating on recording — which the four haven't done extensively.

The group has recorded two albums and a handful of singles but none has been distributed nationally.

"Ninety per cent of our mail asks where to buy our records," said Gary Buck, a member of the group.

So the group is working with independent producer Gary Paxton to come up with a country-oriented single.

"We want to emphasize recording now," said Sam Wellington, another group member and once a radio station manager in West Virginia.

"We have done well except for recording. We're going to put our efforts in the hands of Paxton and let him select the material and mold the voices and then let him take credit or blame or none of the above."

The group has one of Nashville's most remarkable success stories.

The quartet, finalists as top vocal group in the 1975 Country Music Association awards, came to Nashville from Steubenville, Ohio, on New Year's Day, 1967.

They sang on several local television shows and impressed Opry officials who asked them to make a guest appearance on the revered country music show.

The group did, got an encore and was asked back. This continued for 33 straight encore appearances. They became Opry regulars that April without the benefit of a smash hit or national recognition.

The group is often compared to the Statlers, the top country vocal group five straight years.

New Auto Sales At Record Levels

DETROIT (AP) — PreChristmas new domestic car sales hit the second fastest rate in history, the nation's auto industry reported as mid-December sales figures were totaled.

The robust sales announced Thursday for the Dec. 11-20 span provided the first evidence of the 1977-model year that deliveries in the new year would approach the record levels predicted by car executives.

The four U.S. makers sold 223,556 cars in eight selling days for a daily rate of 27,945, up 33 per cent from a year ago, when 189,826 cars were sold in nine days. The daily rate is the industry's yardstick for comparing performances.

The sales record for a mid-December period is 28,553 cars a day, set in 1972.

Previously, fall sales had been running below expectations — even after adjusting for a four-week strike at Ford Motor Co. That prompted some industry officials, citing a temporary pause in the market, to lower their sales targets for 1977.

General Motors Corp., which set a new sales record for the period, led the industry with a 41 per cent gain over year-earlier levels.

Chrysler Corp. was up 36 per cent and Ford Motor Co. 20 per cent, while small-car specialist American Motors Corp. remained in a downturn with an 8 per cent decline.

Sales in the period were more than 20,000 units higher than expected by some industry analysts, who had been overestimating the strength of the market earlier this fall.

"It's too early to say a trend has been established, but we're certainly seeing encouraging signs that 1977 will be a better year than we thought a month ago," said one company analyst.

He said the annual domestic sales rate for the first 20 days of the month was a near record 9.5 million cars, up from 8.2 million in November and 7.7 million in October.

Analysts attributed the sales gains to Ford's continued recovery from its strike, increased small-car interest generated by several cash rebate plans and improving postelection consumer confidence.

Domestic sales for the calendar year through Dec. 20 stood at 8,347,200, up 22 per cent from 6,850,103 last year. GM is up 28 per cent, Ford 14 per cent and Chrysler 31 per cent, while AMC is off 24 per cent from 1975.

Swine Flu Suit Seeks $5.45 Million

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — A man who says he became paralyzed from the neck down after receiving a swine flu vaccination is suing four drug manufacturers for $5.45 million.

Wayne Young, 58, a probation and parole officer, "took the swine flu shot and it caused paralysis of his entire body from the neck down.... The doctors have told us that it caused it," his lawyer, Gene Stipe, said Wednesday.

Meanwhile, health officials in Pennsylvania reported that a man there has died of Guillain-Barre Syndrome, bringing to at least eight the number of persons killed by the paralytic disease after receiving swine flu shots.

The possibility of a connection between the shot and the disease caused suspension of the national immunization program on Dec. 16.

Stipe said Young's suit is directed against the four drug companies that shipped swine flu vaccine to Oklahoma. He identified them as Parke-Davis and Co., Merrell-National, Wyeth Laboratories and Merck-Sharp and Dohme.

Stipe said that once proceedings begin in the case in January he expects to determine which of the companies produced the vaccine taken by Young Nov. 5, then drop the other companies from the suit.

Stipe said he mailed the suit to U.S. District Court for the eastern district of Oklahoma in Muskogee Wednesday. He said he knew of no similar suits.

Doctors have determined that Young is suffering from Guillain-Barre Syndrome, Stipe said. Dr. C.K. Holland, Young's personal physician, refused to tell a reporter whether the ailment had been diagnosed as Guillain-Barre. Young refused to let his doctors discuss his case.

Young, who is hospitalized in McAlester in eastern Oklahoma, said he was unable to walk when he awoke Nov. 21, one day after he went bird hunting. His paralysis worsened through the day.

The federal Center for Disease Control in Atlanta said its latest reports counted 172 persons stricken with the syndrome, of whom seven had died, not including the Pennsylvania man. The CDC said 99 had received flu vaccine, 67 had not, and the status of six was unknown.

The syndrome causes temporary weakness of limbs, loss of sensation, difficulty in breathing and more serious paralysis. It kills about 5 per cent of its victims, according to the latest studies.

Man Gives Christmas New Meaning

DYERSBURG, Tenn. (AP) — An elderly man who asked to be nameless has made this a memorable Christmas for three children he had never met.

For the children, it may have seemed like a little miracle.

The Rev. Phillip Cook, associate pastor of Dyersburg First United Methodist Church, said he received a call from the visitor who was in the city on business. The man asked his help in finding three needy children.

"I went to the man's motel, heard his story, checked his credentials, and contacted the welfare office for help in locating some needy children," Cook said.

The man told the minister he was 76 years old, from Archbold, Ohio, and was the son of a minister.

"He said that 40 years ago he had lost his wife and a daughter and wished to help some children in their memory."

The pastor found three children, a 12-year-old girl and her brothers, aged 7 and 8.

The visitor first took them to a shoe store for a pair of shoes and then to a clothing store "where they were outfitted from the skin out," Cook said.

The next stop was the stranger's motel where the children showered and changed into the new clothing. Then they went to a grocery store where the children were told to fill a cart with anything they wanted, the pastor said.

"They picked food like pizza, coke and crackers, and he added a substantial amount of fruit, meat and staples. Last of all, the stranger treated them to dinner."

"We call it a little miracle," said Cook.

Couple Wed Again; 3rd Time Charm?

CINCINNATI (AP) — After twice failing to stay married to each other, Dallas and Irene Sherman are trying again for a third time.

The couple was married again Thursday, marking another highpoint in their rollercoaster romance which began when they fell in love at age 11.

Since then, there have been three marriages, two children and difficulties which would have finished most couples the first time around.

"You know some people look at us as oddballs," admitted Mrs. Sherman. "We are," added her husband. "It's a fact of life. We don't have anything to hide. We're going to make it."

"Love can endure all."

In this case, love has endured a great deal.

The first marriage, from 1962 until 1970, was marred by a series of car wrecks by Mrs. Sherman.

"I was young then," she recalled. "There wasn't any way to fight with a man so I took it out on the second closest thing to him, his car."

Married again in 1971, the Shermans encountered their most serious domestic trouble during a quarrel eight months later.

"Irene shot me three times," Sherman said. "Twice in the chest and one in the hand. I thought about it a lot while I was in the hospital and knew that I had pushed her to the breaking point."

He decided not to press charges, but it was too late. Bound over to the grand jury, Mrs. Sherman was convicted of intentional shooting to wound. She spent two days in jail and then was put on probation.

She took advantage of a rehabilitation program to finish high school and entered the University of Cincinnati. She will graduate in June with a degree in psychiatric social work.

Meanwhile, the second marriage, which lasted until early this year, continued to be marred by violence. While quarreling with his wife, Dallas was shot in the chest by Mrs. Sherman's brother.

"I was ready to give up, but Irene and the kids wouldn't let me," he said.

Mrs. Sherman knows that theirs has been an unusual romance, but she and her husband are determined to show that marriage can be better the third time around.

"We love each other too much," she said. "And now we know each other. We've struggled, but we're going to make it."

Four Guys Quickly Attain Opry Goal

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — After singing professionally for only three months, the Four Guys accomplished a goal others spend a lifetime seeking: The group of versatile 6-footers joined the Grand Ole Opry.

That was about 10 years ago. Now the group says it's concentrating on recording — which the four haven't done extensively.

The group has recorded two albums and a handful of singles but none has been distributed nationally.

"Ninety per cent of our mail asks where to buy our records," said Gary Buck, a member of the group.

So the group is working with independent producer Gary Paxton to come up with a country-oriented single.

"We want to emphasize recording now," said Sam Wellington, another group member and once a radio station manager in West Virginia.

"We have done well except for recording. We're going to put our efforts in the hands of Paxton and let him select the material and mold the voices and then let him take credit or blame or none of the above."

The group has one of Nashville's most remarkable success stories.

The quartet, finalists at top vocal group in the 1975 Country Music Association awards, came to Nashville from Steubenville, Ohio, on New Year's Day, 1967.

They sang on several local television shows and impressed Opry officials who asked them to make a guest appearance on the revered country music show.

The group did, got an encore and was asked back. This continued for 33 straight encore appearances. They became Opry regulars that April without the benefit of a smash hit or national recognition.

The group is often compared to the Statlers, the top country vocal group five straight years.

"We are the only two country music groups with four members who dress alike," Wellington said. "But about 18 hits separate us."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Has Seven Children, Might Get Married

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 years old, have seven kids and am pregnant again. I've never been married, but I've been engaged twice and I've been pinned several times. Don't tell me I should have been more careful because I WAS careful, but nothing seemed to work with me.

A doctor put me on birth control pills, and I followed his instructions, but I turned up pregnant anyway. The doctor said it must have been the fault of the pills, so he put me on another brand, and the same thing happened.

I've used other methods including marking the calendar, but they all failed. I must be one of those super fertile types.

I don't want anymore kids after this, at least not until I get married, but I don't want an operation to make me sterile because I might meet a guy who wants a kid of his own, and then what will I do?

Is there a method of birth control that is positively sure? Don't send me to a doctor. They're the ones who got me into this fix.

FERTILE MYRTLE

DEAR MYRTLE: When it comes to birth control, the only method that's 100 per cent effective is self-control.

You don't say who's supporting all those kids, but if we taxpayers are, you owe it to your country to visit the Planned Parenthood people and turn off that baby machine.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and have this problem with my boy friend. We've been going together for nearly two years, and when we go to a movie or out to eat, he thinks I should pay my own way. I suppose it's only fair because I'm working, too, but this is what bothers me. He asks me for the money in private and then pays for both of us in public so it won't make

Yablonski Estate Valued At $255,000

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Joseph A. Yablonski, the United Mine Workers rebel slain almost seven years ago, left his two surviving sons an estate valued at more than $255,000, Washington County court records show.

Yablonski, his wife and daughter were shot in their sleep New Year's Eve 1969, three weeks after he lost a bitter election for the union's presidency to W.A. "Tony" Boyle.

Nine people, including Boyle, either confessed or were convicted for their part in the plot to kill Yablonski.

Boyle is now serving three consecutive life terms in Western State Penitentiary for his part in originating the scheme.

Court papers filed Oct. 22 show Yablonski left $190,475 in stocks, bonds, cash, gold coins, and other personal holdings. He also left $65,000 in two real estate properties.

Yablonski's two surviving sons, Kenneth and Joseph Jr., were named as executors of the will.

Yablonski, a former coal miner, had been a union executive for 35 years, including president of the Pittsburgh-based District 5 and a member of the union's international executive board.

His top salary would have been $25,000 a year.

"He was an official of the organization from 1934 to 1969," said Ken Yablonski. "Was he supposed to be him look bad. He says it's embarrassing for a guy to be with a girl who lays down her own cash.

Well, it makes me feel bad to see him pretending to be a big shot. But on the other hand, when a girl pays her own way, it makes her look like she couldn't get a guy any other way.

What do you think, Abby? Should a girl pay her own way? And if she does, should she be up front about it? Or should she slip it to the guy so he won't look cheap?

JUST ME

DEAR JUST: If the girl wants to pay her own way, and her date has no objections, why not? But if she does, she should do so openly. And the guy would accept a girl's money privately and then make a big show of "treating" her is phony.

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad at myself, I don't know what else to do, so I'm writing to Dear Abby!

I let an 8-year-old con artist (my son) talk me into buying him a dog! He cried and begged and promised to take care of it, so like a fool I gave in.

For exactly one week the kid "took care" of his dog. He even got up early to take the dog out. Well, the novelty soon wore off, and now guess who's taking care of the dog? The kid does the dog a favor and plays with it (in the house) for maybe 10 minutes.

I guess I want to tell other parents that just because a kid begs for a dog doesn't mean he really wants it.

I wish there was a "rent-a-dog" outfit in business somewhere. I'd have rented this pooch first to find out if I really wanted to buy him.

GROWLING MAD

DEAR GROWLING: Thanks for the tip. Put your kid in the doghouse and try to find a good home for the pooch.

Yablonski explained that his father was seriously ill in 1930 and as a result purchased several life insurance policies.

He said the policies were converted to stock in the 1950's.

The value of the estate was revealed only after the state asked Washington County Court to site Ken Yablonski in September for not filing an inheritance tax return.

At a hearing on that action Oct. 25, it was brought out that the estate had been filed three days earlier.

"We chose not to process it while the prosecutions of the murders were going on," Yablonski said. "We didn't think it was anybody's business and we didn't want it involved in the trials."

Accompanying documents showed it had been diminished by $15,000 which was used to pay debts and taxes.

Listed as part of the estate were:

—The family's Clarksville, Pa., home valued at $40,000 but purchased for only $6,000 in the 1940's. A two-story building in Brownsville, Fayette County, valued at $25,000.

—3,739 shares of stock in 24 companies worth $99,000 in 1969.

—A trust of 8,000 shares of stock in the Washington Trotting Association, originator of The Meadows race track in Washington County, valued at $38,000.

—Gold coins and a gold bar appraised in 1969 at $5,231.

Dubious Awards For State Officials

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — This time of the year prompted some suggestions for dubious awards among Ohio's elected and appointed public officials.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, as always, was in the running for recognition, with his unpredictable style and demeanor.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown and Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste were heard from, and veteran Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, finishing his 26th year in office, could not be counted out of the tongue-in-cheek awards.

See Grim Yuletide In Belfast

Standing before a holidaydecorated window, a British soldier wearing a bulletproof vest over his camouflage fatigues cradles a loaded rifle in his arms.

This is Northern Ireland's capital at Christmastime.

A ring of steel, like the bars on a prison compound, encompasses more than a square mile of Belfast's main shopping district, restricting automobiles. Shoppers carry their parcels in their arms. Should they set them down, they might be confiscated as suspected bombs.

Lined up by the hundreds at each of several steel gates, grim-faced last-minute shoppers wait to be searched by Irish police and British soldiers before entering the business area.

"Today I've been stopped and searched at least six times," says an old woman accompanied by her granddaughter.

Once inside the steel cordon, shoppers walk through electronic devices before they gain entrance to most of the department stores, novelty and clothing shops, and restaurants.

Attack dogs, restrained by soldiers, patrol the streets as Santa Claus comes by in his horse-drawn sleigh, shouting "Happy Christmas." Trailing close behind is an army jeep with four rifles pointing in all directions.

The steel barricade that surrounds the shopping area was completed last June to discourage bombing and shooting where crowds gather. Nearly 300 deaths have been reported this year in the Catholic-Protestant struggle, bringing the toll for more than seven years of civil war close to 1,700.

"About the only Christmas present you can expect around here is a bullet or a bomb. After all, this is Belfast, you know," says a boyish-faced, gun-toting soldier.

Ford, while wearing yellow camper's boots.

BEST SENSE OF HUMOR: Riffe, for barely managing a smile when minority Republicans gave him a T-shirt with an off color slogan, suggesting he wielded too heavy a gavel in the House.

MOST MODEST OFFICIAL: Ocasek, for his feud with public works personnel who reportedly refused to let him park his car inside the Statehouse basement, where the governor's cars gets parked and regularly washed.

MOST COLORFUL LANGUAGE: The attorney general, hands down, when a small group of Republican House members and Miami County Prosecutor Robert Huffman accused him of knowing about the employment of exconvicts by the lottery commission.

MOST BASHFUL POLITICIAN: Celeste, for being so reluctant (?) to talk about his long known plans to run for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1978.

CAT-CANARY SMILE OF THE YEAR: Secretary Brown, who hardly could conceal his satisfaction over the downfall of Congressman Wayne Hays, a long time and bitter political enemy.

BUDDY OF THE YEAR AWARD: Co-winners, Donald D. Cook and Curtis Andrews, ousted as highway safety director and motor vehicles registrar, respectively, after being unable to patch up a feud that embarrassed their boss, the governor.

ODDSMAKER OF THE YEAR: State Republican Chairman Kent B. McGough, for saying the GOP could pick up as many as 25 Ohio House seats in the Nov. 2 election. They lost three.

A Bright and Merry Christmas

With every good wish for the holidays. Thanks for your loyal support.

Trustee Reinstated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has reinstated a township trustee in Russell Township, Geauga County after a year-long dispute over the official's appointment.

The appointee, Peter C. Prior, was named to the Russell Township board on Dec. 11, 1975 by the two other trustees, one of whom, Betty A. Roman, was also a de facto, or appointed member.

A complaint was subsequently filed by Albert L. Purola against the appointment because only one duly elected board member, Donald Breckenridge, voted for Prior.

In a unanimous opinion, the high court held that Roman had functioned as a de facto officer of the board and that her vote together with elected member Breckenridge was "legally sufficient to appoint Prior."

unexpired term which went to Dec. 31, 1976.

To Cables own term, that was to expire Dec. 31, 1975, the two trustees appointed Roman. On Dec. 11, 1975 Cable resigned and Prior was picked for the spot.

The 11th District Court of Appeals issued a summary judgment ousting Prior, only to be overturned by the supreme court.

You don't say who's supporting all those kids, but if we taxpayers are, you owe it to your country to visit the Planned Parenthood people and turn off that baby machine.

DEAR ABBY: I am 18 and have this problem with my boy friend. We've been going together for nearly two years, and when we go to a movie or out to eat, he thinks I should pay my own way. I suppose it's only fair because I'm working, too, but this is what bothers me. He asks me for the money in private and then pays for both of us in public so it won't make him look bad. He says it's embarrassing for a guy to be with a girl who lays down her own cash.

Well, it makes me feel bad to see him pretending to be a big shot. But on the other hand, when a girl pays her own way, it makes her look like she couldn't get a guy any other way.

What do you think, Abby? Should a girl pay her own way? And if she does, should she be up front about it? Or should she slip it to the guy so he won't look cheap?

JUST ME

DEAR JUST: If the girl wants to pay her own way, and her date has no objections, why not? But if she does, she should do so openly. And the guy would accept a girl's money privately and then make a big show of "treating" her is phony.

DEAR ABBY: I am so mad at myself, I don't know what else to do, so I'm writing to Dear Abby!

I let an 8-year-old con artist (my son) talk me into buying him a dog! He cried and begged and promised to take care of it, so like a fool I gave in.

For exactly one week the kid "took care" of his dog. He even got up early to take the dog out. Well, the novelty soon wore off, and now guess who's taking care of the dog? The kid does the dog a favor and plays with it (in the house) for maybe 10 minutes.

I guess I want to tell other parents that just because a kid begs for a dog doesn't mean he really wants it.

I wish there was a "rent-a-dog" outfit in business somewhere. I'd have rented this pooch first to find out if I really wanted to buy him.

GROWLING MAD
DEAR GROWLING: Thanks for the tip. Put your kid in the doghouse and try to find a good home for the pooch.

Yablonski Estate Valued At $255,000

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Joseph A. Yablonski, the United Mine Workers rebel slain almost seven years ago, left his two surviving sons an estate valued at more than $255,000, Washington County court records show.

Yablonski, his wife and daughter were shot in their sleep New Year's Eve 1969, three weeks after he lost a bitter election for the union's presidency to W.A. "Tony" Boyle.

Nine people, including Boyle, either confessed or were convicted for their part in the plot to kill Yablonski.

Boyle is now serving three consecutive life terms in Western State Penitentiary for his part in originating the scheme.

Court papers filed Oct. 22 show Yablonski left $190,475 in stocks, bonds, cash, gold coins, and other personal holdings. He also left $65,000 in two real estate properties.

Yablonski's two surviving sons, Kenneth and Joseph Jr., were named as executors of the will.

Yablonski, a former coal miner, had been a union executive for 35 years, including president of the Pittsburgh-based District 5 and a member of the union's international executive board.

His top salary would have been $25,000 a year.

"He was an official of the organization from 1934 to 1969," said Ken Yablonski. "Was he supposed to be broke after all that time?"

Yablonski explained that his father was seriously ill in 1930 and as a result purchased several life insurance policies.

He said the policies were converted to stock in the 1950's.

The value of the estate was revealed only after the state asked Washington County Court to site Ken Yablonski in September for not filing an inheritance tax return.

At a hearing on that action Oct. 25, it was brought out that the estate had been filed three days earlier.

"We chose not to process it while the prosecutions of the murders were going on," Yablonski said. "We didn't think it was anybody's business and we didn't want it involved in the trials."

Accompanying documents showed it had been diminished by $15,000 which was used to pay debts and taxes.

Listed as part of the estate were:

—The family's Clarksville, Pa., home valued at $40,000 but purchased for only $6,000 in the 1940's. A two-story building in Brownsville, Fayette County, valued at $25,000.

—3,739 shares of stock in 24 companies worth $99,000 in 1969.

—A trust of 8,000 shares of stock in the Washington Trotting Association, originator of The Meadows race track in Washington County, valued at $38,000.

—A checking account totaling $13,675 and $5,000 in a safe deposit box.

—Gold coins and a gold bar appraised in 1969 at $5,231.

—Bonds in five corporations worth $15,605.

Dubious Awards For State Officials

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — This time of the year prompted some suggestions for dubious awards among Ohio's elected and appointed public officials.

Gov. James A. Rhodes, as always, was in the running for recognition, with his unpredictable style and demeanor.

Vernal Riffe Jr., Democratic speaker of the House, and his counterpart in the upper chamber, Sen. Oliver Ocasek, also drew raised eyebrows at times during 1976.

Atty. Gen. William J. Brown and Lt. Gov. Richard F. Celeste were heard from, and veteran Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, finishing his 26th year in office, could not be counted out of the tongue-in-cheek awards.

The envelopes, please.

BEAU BRUMMEL OF THE YEAR: Rhodes, for appearing on the Statehouse steps the day before the presidential election, with President

Ford, while wearing yellow camper's boots.

BEST SENSE OF HUMOR: Riffe, for barely managing a smile when minority Republicans gave him a T-shirt with an off color slogan, suggesting he wielded too heavy a gavel in the House.

MOST MODEST OFFICIAL: Ocasek, for his feud with public works personnel who reportedly refused to let him park his car inside the Statehouse basement, where the governor's car gets parked and regularly washed.

MOST COLORFUL LANGUAGE: The attorney general, hands down, when a small group of Republican House members and Miami County Prosecutor Robert Huffman accused him of knowing about the employment of exconvicts by the lottery commission.

MOST BASHFUL POLITICIAN: Celeste, for being so reluctant (?) to talk about his long known plans to run for the Democratic nomination for governor in 1978.

CAT-CANARY SMILE OF THE YEAR: Secretary Brown, who hardly could conceal his satisfaction over the downfall of Congressman Wayne Hays, a long time and bitter political enemy.

BUDDY OF THE YEAR AWARD: Co-winners, Donald D. Cook and Curtis Andrews, ousted as highway safety director and motor vehicles registrar, respectively, after being unable to patch up a feud that embarrassed their boss, the governor.

ODDSMAKER OF THE YEAR: State Republican Chairman Kent B. McGough, for saying the GOP could pick up as many as 25 Ohio House seats in the Nov. 2 election. They lost three.

See Grim Yuletide In Belfast

Standing before a holidaydecorated window, a British soldier wearing a bulletproof vest over his camouflage fatigues cradles a loaded rifle in his arms.

A woman soldier frisks a smartly dressed young lady.

This is Northern Ireland's capital at Christmastime.

A ring of steel, like the bars on a prison compound, encompasses more than a square mile of Belfast's main shopping district, restricting automobiles. Shoppers carry their parcels in their arms. Should they set them down, they might be confiscated as suspected bombs.

Lined up by the hundreds at each of several steel gates, grim-faced last-minute shoppers wait to be searched by Irish police and British soldiers before entering the business area.

"Today I've been stopped and searched at least six times," says an old woman accompanied by her granddaughter.

Once inside the steel cordon, shoppers walk through electronic devices before they gain entrance to most of the department stores, novelty and clothing shops, and restaurants.

Attack dogs, restrained by soldiers, patrol the streets as Santa Claus comes by in his horse-drawn sleigh, shouting "Happy Christmas." Trailing close behind is an army jeep with four rifles pointing in all directions.

The steel barricade that surrounds the shopping area was completed last June to discourage bombing and shooting where crowds gather. Nearly 300 deaths have been reported this year in the Catholic-Protestant struggle, bringing the toll for more than seven years of civil war close to 1,700.

"About the only Christmas present you can expect around here is a bullet or a bomb. After all, this is Belfast, you know," says a boyish-faced, gun-toting soldier.

Trustee Reinstated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has reinstated a township trustee in Russell Township, Geauga County after a year-long dispute over the official's appointment.

The appointee, Peter C. Prior, was named to the Russell Township board on Dec. 11, 1975 by the two other trustees, one of whom, Betty A. Roman, was also a de facto, or appointed member.

A complaint was subsequently filed by Albert L. Purola against the appointment because only one duly elected board member, Donald Breckenridge, voted for Prior.

In a unanimous opinion, the high court held that Roman had functioned as a de facto officer of the board and that her vote together with elected member Breckenridge was "legally sufficient to appoint Prior."

The controversy stemmed from the June 27, 1975 resignation of trustee William Trowbridge. Breckenridge and trustee Robert Cable voted to appoint Cable to Trowbridge's unexpired term which went to Dec. 31, 1976.

To Cable's own term, that was to expire Dec. 31, 1975, the two trustees appointed Roman. On Dec. 11, 1975 Cable resigned and Prior was picked for the spot.

The 11th District Court of Appeals issued a summary judgment ousting Prior, only to be overturned by the supreme court.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

"It's the night before Christmas and all through the town, people are smiling and you can't find a frown."

Once again it's Christmas and our favorite time of the year.

There is something about the decorations, beautiful music and the feeling that builds inside you that changes the "meanest man in town into a Dale Carnegie."

Giving and love take over and make all the problems of the world seem as far away as the sound of the wind weaving a path through the tree tops.

It's a time when people become considerate of each other and go out of their way to offer friendly greetings and a word of good cheer.

Christmas is a time for giving — Not only presents — But of ourselves — And this is the way it should be because the man who made it all possible made the supreme sacrifice to give us the biggest gift of all.

Let's all give gifts and goodwill — But above all — Let's make sure that we keep Christ foremost in the picture — Because he is everything that Christmas stands for.

So to all of you—Have the best Christmas ever—And "May you be three days in heaven before the devil finds out you're gone."

Our "fearless" forecast—The Raiders will not move the "Steel" curtain . . . Fran will be the man as the Vikings slay LA.

Until next time, have a nice day—be a good sport.

Vikings, Steelers Picked As Winners

NEW YORK (AP) — On the day after Christmas there, under the tree, pro football presents a treat for you and me.

For starters, the Vikings and Rams go to war, knowing it won't be another tie score.

And over in Oakland, for an instant replay, the Raiders and Steelers will complete the day.

So who do you like, in the title games? Throw them all in the hat and pick out the names.

The picker as perfect on the opening round. Let's see if this week he can be as sound.

Minnesota 17, Los Angeles 13
Two years ago, the same teams battled for the NFC championship and Minnesota won 14-10. Both have improved since then, so add a field goal to each side.

Tarkenton will be pitching for the Vikings again Sunday despite a slightly bruised knee. Minnesota is more concerned about the condition of regular linebackers Matt Blair and Jeff Siemon, both of whom came out of the 35-20 first round victory over Washington with bumps. Blair suffered a concussion and Siemon a pulled calf muscle. Both were listed as questionable at midweek.

For the Rams, who reached the title game by winning a 14-12 thriller against Dallas, Pat Haden will be at quarterback, but one of his targets, wide receiver Ron Jessie is nursing a sprained ankle. Jessie, defensive tackle Larry Brooks, who has a sore toe, and safety-kick holder Steve Preece, who sprained a thumb, all are probable starters.

Pittsburgh 27, Oakland 20
Look for another war. These teams engaged in some namecalling after their last meeting, a 31-28 opening-game victory for the Raiders.

This is the fifth straight year they have tangled in the playoffs in a series that started in 1972 with Franco Harris' remarkable last-minute catch that produced a 60-yard winning touchdown.

Their loss to Oakland in the 1976 opener started the Steelers on a 1-4 spin that staggered their playoff chances. But they bounced back with nine straight victories and got a boost into the playoffs from, of all people, the Raiders.

The Steelers are wounded, with Harris and running mate Rocky Bleier both banged up from the 40-14 first-round blitz of Baltimore. Harris has bruised ribs and Bleier a sprained toe. Also injured are placekicker Roy Gerela, who has a groin injury, and Jon Fuqua, another running back, who pulled a calf muscle against the Colts.

The Raiders are healthy except for middle guard Dave Rowe, listed as probable with an aching shoulder, and wide receiver Mike Siani, questionable with a bad knee.

Injuries May Decide Fiesta Bowl Game

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Injuries may be the key to victory in the Fiesta Bowl football game here Christmas Day between Wyoming and Oklahoma.

The eighth-ranked Sooners, who tied with Colorado and Oklahoma State for the Big Eight championship with an 8-2-1 mark, are picked as two-to-three-touchdown favorites for the Fiesta Bowl, which will draw a crowd of around 49,000 to Sun Devil Stadium for the 1 p.m. MST kickoff Saturday.

Wyoming must avoid injuries on the offensive line and at the fullback position if it hopes to knock off highly favored Oklahoma in the fifth annual bowl game.

Wyoming Coach Fred Akers, who steered the Cowboys to their first post-season game in eight years, admits that his Western Athletic Conference co-champion team doesn't have Oklahoma's depth. And he says the team owes its 8-3 record largely to the fact that there were no serious injuries at vulnerable positions.

"We've been very fortunate in avoiding injuries in certain areas, like our offensive line," Akers said. "The depth there is very suspect, as it has been all year."

"We also have a depth problem at fullback, and it's amazing the way Robbie Wright, as small as he is, and as many times as he's called on to run the football, has been able to stay healthy."

Wright, a 5-10, 183-pound senior, led the Cowboys in rushing for the second time in his career. He averaged 5.3 yards every time he carried the ball, and would up with 718 total yards.

The Oklahoma Sooners have not been as lucky in avoiding injuries.

Tackle Mike Vaughn, the 6-5, 275-pounder whom the Sooners turn to when the chips are down, has been plagued with a knee injury which he twisted again in practice Thursday. He is expected to play, even in pain.

The loss of other Sooners to injuries also has bothered Vaughn, who said Oklahoma could have been undefeated if the team had been healthy.

Some 2,000 tickets were still available a day before the game, which was expected to be played under warm, sunny skies.

The Sooners and the Cowboys both use wishbone offenses, and Oklahoma finished the regular season as the nation's third best rushing team with an average of 321.8 yards a game.

Minnesota led the American League in hitting in 1976 with .274, five points more than the Yankees and Kansas City Royals.

Tommy Kramer of Rice had only two of his 74 passes intercepted in Rice's first three games in 1976. He averaged 24 completions a game.

End Clennie Brundidge of Army caught 31 passes in the Cadets' first four games in 1976 to pace the nation's collegians.

NFL Clashes Slated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With all the talk of a revenge rematch between the Pittsburgh Steelers and George Atkinson of the Oakland Raiders, it's gone kind of unnoticed that Minnesota's Chuck Foreman has a score to settle, too.

Foreman will get his chance Sunday when the Vikings entertain the Los Angeles Rams for the National Football Conference championship a few hours before the Steelers and Raiders square off in Oakland for American Football Conference honors.

In the season opener, a forearm by Atkinson to the back of Pittsburgh wide receiver Lynn Swann's head resulted in a concussion for Swann, fines and warnings for Atkinson and bitter feelings on the part of the Steelers.

"If Atkinson pulls that kind of garbage, I'll come off the bench and get him myself," threatened defensive tackle "Mean" Joe Greene.

Meanwhile, Foreman remembers an early-season 10-10 standoff with the Rams, although he'd like to forget it.

"I had only 31 yards rushing, or something horrible like that," Foreman points out. "I think they did the best job defending me of anybody we played against. I don't want that to happen again."

Since Foreman was a consensus all-pro selection a year ago, owns most club rushing marks and has averaged 1,000 yards over the last three years, you can see that few people other than the Rams have stopped him.

The conference winners meet in Super Bowl XI, scheduled for Jan. 9 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

The Raiders, with 11 victories in a row, and the Steelers, with 10, boast the NFL's longest winning streaks. Obviously, only one of them can continue.

Pittsburgh, which has won the last two Super Bowls, and Oakland are old hands at this sort of thing. This will be their third consecutive AFC title showdown and their fifth postseason confrontation in as many years.

Swann predicts he'll "have the last laugh" on Atkinson "when we come home AFC champs — again."

For that to happen, though, some of the Steelers' running backs had better get well in a hurry. Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier both rushed for more than 1,000 yards this season but are trying to come back from injuries, as is Frenchy Fuqua.

"Football always hurts," says Fuqua. "This is for the money, darlin'. You can't be half-steppin' with all those Christmas bills coming in."

Pittsburgh is favored because of its defense, which allowed only two touchdowns in the final nine regular-season games and recorded five shutouts, most in the NFL since 1944.

But, says Oakland quarterback Kenny Stabler, "In the playoffs, all the teams are evenly matched. The team that wins will be the one that holds down the turnovers and makes the big plays."

Tide Drops South Carolina

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

When South Carolina played Alabama earlier in the season, the Crimson Tide were at their best and it did the Gamecocks' reputation considerable harm.

Alabama was at its worst Thursday night. But it still didn't do South Carolina any good as Alabama raised its record to 8-0.

"It was a good win for us," said

Alabama Coach C.M. Newton after his Crimson Tide defeated South Carolina 67-62 in the finals of the Carolina Classic. "It was our fourth game in seven days and we weren't as quick as we have been."

South Carolina Coach Frank McGuire, remembering a 90-66 beating from Alabama earlier in the year at Tuscaloosa, changed tactics.

Instead of using a man-to-man defense as he did at Alabama, McGuire offered a zone.

"McGuire had an excellent game plan," said Newton. "We drubbed them pretty good at our place with the press and playing against their man-to-man and we knew they would change things this time around."

"I think our zone was very effective," McGuire pointed out. "But they hit two long shots late in the game that hurt us. We played as well as we're capable of."

The hardware won by Alabama marked the second tourney triumph this year for the nation's fifth-ranked team. It's the first time that Alabama has won two basketball tournaments in one season. The Crimson Tide won the Dayton Invitational earlier in the year.

Elsewhere in college basketball, No. 8 UCLA stopped William & Mary 59-55; No. 16 Utah trimmed Weber State 88-81 in overtime; No. 18 Arkansas whipped Tulsa 81-66 and No. 20 Minnesota nipped Kansas State 62-60.

Robert Scott's jumper with 5:47 left broke a tie and triggered Alabama's victory over South Carolina. T.R. Dunn of Alabama led the Tide's attack with 15 points and was voted the Carolina Classic's most valuable player. In a consolation game, Georgetown defeated Harvard 60-40 to take third place in the tourney.

Eight free throws in the final minute, four by Roy Hamilton, preserved UCLA's victory over William & Mary. Jeff Jonas scored 19 points and handed out 15 assists to lead Utah's overtime victory over stubborn Weber State. Ron Brewer and Sidney Moncreif each scored 20 points to lead Arkansas past Tulsa.

Ray Williams' layup with 43 seconds to play gave undefeated Minnesota its seventh victory. Williams, who was injured in the first half and had just reentered the game, took a perfect feed from Michael Thompson for his game-winning shot.

Pacers Rally, Beat New York, 96-94

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Leonard spoke in superlatives. That's what happens when your basketball team comes back from a 10-point deficit in the last two minutes.

Kevin Loughery wouldn't speak at all. That's what happens when your team loses a 10-point lead in the last two minutes.

"That was a great comeback, one of the finest comebacks I've ever seen," said Leonard after his Indiana Pacers defeated the New York Nets 96-94 in the National Basketball Association Thursday night.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Phoenix turned back Buffalo 107-92; Chicago downed Atlanta 101-95; San Antonio nipped Washington 118-116; Milwaukee outscored Golden State 112-103 and Denver hammered Seattle 123-95.

While Leonard was exulting in the eruption of last-minute points, Loughery was shutting out reporters.

"I didn't see the game so I can't comment on it," said a dour Loughery, who was ejected on his second technical of the night at 9:02 of the fourth period.

Billy Knight scored 32 points for Indiana, including seven in that late 12-point run. An underhand scoop shot of Knight's tied the score at 94 with 28 seconds left. Moments before, Don Buse hit two free throws, then stole the ball from Nate Archibald to set up a dunk shot by Dan Roundfield and bring the Pacers within striking distance.

Suns 107, Braves 92
Ricky Sobers scored a career-high 30 points to pace Phoenix over Buffalo.

Bulls 101, Hawks 95
Mickey Johnson and Artis Gilmore combined for 17 fourth-quarter points and picked off 13 rebounds to guide Chicago past Atlanta. The Bulls, winning for the eighth time in their last 10 games, could not put the game away until the final two minutes, when Norm Van Lier made four straight free throws.

Spurs 118, Bullets 116
San Antonio got 26 points from Larry Kenon and survived a scare when Washington's Elvin Hayes narrowly missed a tip-in with one second left, preserving the Spurs' victory over the Bullets.

Bucks 112, Warriors 103
Milwaukee's Bob Dandridge scored 16 of his 22 points in the second half, leading the Bucks over Golden State. Gus Williams and Rick Barry rallied the Warriors from an eight-point, fourth-quarter deficit to within 100-99 and 104-103. But Dandridge scored a basket to make it 106-103 and trigger a run of eight consecutive points by the Bucks.

Nuggets 123, Sonics 95
David Thompson scored a season-high 38 points and Denver used a brilliant second-quarter defense to whip Seattle. The Nuggets, trailing 30-25 after the opening period, held the SuperSonics to 14 points in the second quarter and led 54-44 at the half. Seattle, with center Tom Burleson in foul trouble, never recovered.

Finley Suit Recessed

CHICAGO (AP) — Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley's civil suit against baseball Commission Bowie Kuhn for voiding the multi-million dollar sale of three Oakland A's players last summer has recessed until Jan. 3.

Finley is seeking in U.S. District Court to recover some of the millions he said he lost when Kuhn voided his trade of outfielder Joe Rudi and pitchers Vida Blue and Rollie Fingers.

Finley said he believes baseball's Major League Agreement doesn't give the commissioner power to void legal trades, but allows him only to "make sure there is no gambling — and nothing immoral going on."

Finley, wrapping up his case against Kuhn Thursday, also testified that he was constantly offering his players valuable contracts but that they were all turned down.

Kuhn gave as his reason for voiding the sales last summer that they were "not in the best interests of baseball" and would tend to upset "competitive balance" in the American League by making New York and Boston too strong and weakening Oakland.

Aeros Edge Stingers, 6-5

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Houston Aeros believe in doing things in pairs.

The Aeros used two goals by both Rich Preston and Terry Ruskowski to a 6-5 overtime triumph over the Cincinnati Stingers in a World Hockey Association game Thursday night. It was Preston's second tally of the game just 1:04 into the overtime period that provided Houston with the victory.

In other WHA action, Calgary nipped Minnesota 2-1 and New England defeated San Diego 5-3.

Ruskowski scored twice within 45 seconds in the second period to give the Aeros a 4-1 lead before the Stingers stormed ahead with four straight goals, including a pair by Rich Leduc. But Houston tied the game on Marty Howe's eighth goal of the season at 14:26 of the third period, then Preston gave the Aeros their first overtime win this year in five tries.

Sabres Bomb Bruins; Win NHL Tilt 4-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All the Buffalo Sabres wanted for Christmas was first place in the National Hockey League's Adams Division ... and they got it with room to spare.

The high-flying Sabres overtook the Boston Bruins Wednesday night and boosted their lead to two points Thursday evening with a come-from-behind 4-2 triumph — their seventh in a row — over the Toronto Maple Leafs while the Bruins were tied 3-3 by the New York Rangers.

"Our guys said they would be in first place by Christmas and they are," said Coach Floyd Smith. "I didn't really expect them to be. Remember they were 12 points back only a month ago."

In other NHL action, Philadelphia downed Washington 5-2, Detroit defeated Pittsburgh 5-2 and St. Louis turned back Vancouver 4-2.

Buffalo's victory over Toronto also guaranteed a merry Christmas for slumping Rene Robert, whose 10th goal of the season with just under five minutes to play snapped a 2-2 tie. Craig Ramsay scored an insurance goal into an empty net with 56 seconds left.

"When it came, it came at the right time," said Robert, who had scored only one goal in his previous 13 games. "I was wondering, shaking my head, how long is this going to last? This was a fine Christmas present."

The Sabres rallied after falling behind 2-0 in the first 5½ minutes on goals 33 seconds apart by Bob Neely and Dave Williams. Rick Martin started Buffalo's comeback with a rinklength solo dash and Andre Savard tied it early in the third period.

Find Cager Had Choked

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Clementine Johnson, the mother of the Akron Buchtel High School basketball player who died Wednesday night, says the tragedy "was the Lord's will, or else it wouldn't be this way."

Wayne Johnson, 18, died in a game here against Warren Harding High School from what Trumbull County Coroner Dr. Joseph Sudimack Jr. said was apophysis.

Sudimack said after colliding with a teammate, the youth fell to the floor, vomited, and the contents of his stomach then went into his lungs.

"It was a freak thing," Sudimack said. "He fell down, threw up, and it went back into his lungs."

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

"It's the night before Christmas and all through the town, people are smiling and you can't find a frown." Once again it's Christmas and our favorite time of the year.

There is something about the decorations, beautiful music and the feeling that builds inside you that changes the "meanest man in town into a Dale Carnegie."

Giving and love take over and make all the problems of the world seem as far away as the sound of the wind weaving a path through the tree tops.

It's a time when people become considerate of each other and go out of their way to offer friendly greetings and a word of good cheer.

Christmas is a time of giving — Not only presents — But of ourselves — And this is the way it should be because the man who made it all possible made the supreme sacrifice to give us the biggest gift of all.

Let's all give gifts and goodwill — But above all — Let's make sure that we keep Christ foremost in the picture — Because he is everything that Christmas stands for.

So to all of you—Have the best Christmas ever—And "May you be three days in heaven before the devil finds out you're gone."

Our "fearless" forecast—The Raiders will not move the "Steel" curtain . . . Fran will be the man as the Vikings slay LA.

Until next time, have a nice day-be a good sport.

Vikings, Steelers Picked As Winners

NEW YORK (AP) — On the day after Christmas there, under the tree, pro football presents a treat for you and me.

For starters, the Vikings and Rams go to war, knowing it won't be another tie score.

And over in Oakland, for an instant replay, the Raiders and Steelers will complete the day.

So who do you like, in the title games? Throw them all in the hat and pick out the names.

The picker as perfect on the opening round. Let's see if this week he can be as sound.

Minnesota 17, Los Angeles 13
Two years ago, the same teams battled for the NFC championship and Minnesota won 14-10. Both have improved since then, so add a field goal to each side.

Tarkenton will be pitching for the Vikings again Sunday despite a slightly bruised knee. Minnesota is more concerned about the condition of regular linebackers Matt Blair and Jeff Siemon, both of whom came out of the 35-20 first round victory over Washington with bumps. Blair suffered a concussion and Siemon a pulled calf muscle. Both were listed as questionable at midweek.

For the Rams, who reached the title game by winning a 14-12 thriller against Dallas, Pat Haden will be at quarterback, but one of his targets, wide receiver Ron Jessie is nursing a sprained ankle. Jessie, defensive tackle Larry Brooks, who has a sore toe, and safety-kick holder Steve Preece, who sprained a thumb, all are probable starters.

Pittsburgh 27, Oakland 20
Look for another war. These teams engaged in some namecalling after their last meeting, a 31-28 opening-game victory for the Raiders.

This is the fifth straight year they have tangled in the playoffs in a series that started in 1972 with Franco Harris' remarkable last-minute catch that produced a 60-yard winning touchdown.

Their loss to Oakland in the 1976 opener started the Steelers on a 1-4 spin that staggered their playoff chances. But they bounced back with nine straight victories and got a boost into the playoffs from, of all people, the Raiders.

The Steelers are wounded, with Harris and running mate Rocky Bleier both banged up from the 40-14 first-round blitz of Baltimore. Harris has bruised ribs and Bleier a sprained toe. Also injured are placekicker Roy Gerela, who has a groin injury, and Jon Fuqua, another running back, who pulled a calf muscle against the Colts.

The Raiders are healthy except for middle guard Dave Rowe, listed as probable with an aching shoulder, and wide receiver Mike Siani, questionable with a bad knee.

Injuries May Decide Fiesta Bowl Game

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP) — Injuries may be the key to victory in the Fiesta Bowl football game here Christmas Day between Wyoming and Oklahoma.

The eighth-ranked Sooners, who tied with Colorado and Oklahoma State for the Big Eight championship with an 8-2-1 mark, are picked as two-to-three-touchdown favorites for the Fiesta Bowl, which will draw a crowd of around 49,000 to Sun Devil Stadium for the 1 p.m. MST kickoff Saturday.

Wyoming must avoid injuries on the offensive line and at the fullback position if it hopes to knock off highly favored Oklahoma in the fifth annual bowl game.

Wyoming Coach Fred Akers, who steered the Cowboys to their first post-season game in eight years, admits that his Western Athletic Conference co-champion team doesn't have Oklahoma's depth. And he says the team owes its 8-3 record largely to the fact that there were no serious injuries at vulnerable positions.

"We've been very fortunate in avoiding injuries in certain areas, like our offensive line," Akers said. "The depth there is very suspect, as it has been all year."

"We also have a depth problem at fullback, and it's amazing the way Robbie Wright, as small as he is, and as many times as he's called on to run the football, has been able to stay healthy."

Wright, a 5-10, 183-pound senior, led the Cowboys in rushing for the second time in his career. He averaged 5.3 yards every time he carried the ball, and would up with 718 total yards.

The Oklahoma Sooners have not been as lucky in avoiding injuries.

Tackle Mike Vaughn, the 6-5, 275-pounder whom the Sooners turn to when the chips are down, has been plagued with a knee injury which he twisted again in practice Thursday. He is expected to play, even in pain.

The loss of other Sooners to injuries also has bothered Vaughn, who said Oklahoma could have been undefeated if the team had been healthy.

Some 2,000 tickets were still available a day before the game, which was expected to be played under warm, sunny skies.

The Sooners and the Cowboys both use wishbone offenses, and Oklahoma finished the regular season as the nation's third best rushing team with an average of 321.8 yards a game.

Minnesota led the American League in hitting in 1976 with 274, five points more than the Yankees and Kansas City Royals.

Tommy Kramer of Rice had only two of his 74 passes intercepted in Rice's first three games in 1976. He averaged 24 completions a game.

End Clennie Brundidge of Army caught 31 passes in the Cadets' first four games in 1976 to pace the nation's collegians.

NFL Clashes Slated

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

With all the talk of a revenge rematch between the Pittsburgh Steelers and George Atkinson of the Oakland Raiders, it's gone kind of unnoticed that Minnesota's Chuck Foreman has a score to settle, too.

Foreman will get his chance Sunday when the Vikings entertain the Los Angeles Rams for the National Football Conference championship a few hours before the Steelers and Raiders square off in Oakland for American Football Conference honors.

In the season opener, a forearm by Atkinson to the back of Pittsburgh wide receiver Lynn Swann's head resulted in a concussion for Swann, fines and warnings for Atkinson and bitter feelings on the part of the Steelers.

"If Atkinson pulls that kind of garbage, I'll come off the bench and get him myself," threatened defensive tackle "Mean" Joe Greene.

Meanwhile, Foreman remembers an early-season 10-10 standoff with the Rams, although he'd like to forget it. "I had only 31 yards rushing, or something horrible like that," Foreman points out. "I think they did the best job of defending me of anybody we played against. I don't want that to happen again."

Since Foreman was a consensus all-pro selection a year ago, owns most club rushing marks and has averaged 1,000 yards over the last three years, you can see that few people other than the Rams have stopped him.

The conference winners meet in Super Bowl XI, scheduled for Jan. 9 in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif.

The Raiders, with 11 victories in a row, and the Steelers, with 10, boast the NFL's longest winning streaks. Obviously, only one of them can continue.

Pittsburgh, which has won the last two Super Bowls, and Oakland are old hands at this sort of thing. This will be their third consecutive AFC title showdown and their fifth postseason confrontation in as many years.

Swann predicts he'll "have the last laugh" on Atkinson "when we come home AFC champs — again."

For that to happen, though, some of the Steelers' running backs had better get well in a hurry. Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier both rushed for more than 1,000 yards this season but are trying to come back from injuries, as is Frenchy Fuqua.

"Football always hurts," says Fuqua. "This is for the money, darlin'. You can't be half-steppin' with all those Christmas bills coming in."

Pittsburgh is favored because of its defense, which allowed only two touchdowns in the final nine regular-season games and recorded five shutouts, most in the NFL since 1944.

But, says Oakland quarterback Kenny Stabler, "In the playoffs, all the teams are evenly matched. The team that wins will be the one that holds down the turnovers and makes the big plays."

Tide Drops South Carolina

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When South Carolina played Alabama earlier in the season, the Crimson Tide were at their best and it did the Gamecocks' reputation considerable harm.

Alabama was at its worst Thursday night. But it still didn't do South Carolina any good as Alabama raised its record to 8-0.

Pacers Rally, Beat New York, 96-94

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bobby Leonard spoke in superlatives. That's what happens when your basketball team comes back from a 10-point deficit in the last two minutes.

Kevin Loughery wouldn't speak at all. That's what happens when your team loses a 10-point lead in the last two minutes.

"That was a great comeback, one of the finest comebacks I've ever seen," said Leonard after his Indiana Pacers defeated the New York Nets 96-94 in the National Basketball Association Thursday night.

It was certainly one of the better ones. The Pacers reeled off 12 points in the final 1:47 of the game to wipe out a 94-84 New York lead.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Phoenix turned back Buffalo 107-92; Chicago downed Atlanta 101-95; San Antonio

nipped Washington 118-116; Milwaukee outscored Golden State 112-103 and Denver hammered Seattle 123-95.

While Leonard was exulting in the eruption of last-minute points, Loughery was shutting out reporters. "I didn't see the game so I can't comment on it," said a dour Loughery, who was ejected on his second technical of the night at 9:02 of the fourth period.

Billy Knight scored 32 points for Indiana, including seven in that late 12-point run. An underhand scoop shot of Knight's tied the score at 94 with 28 seconds left. Moments before, Don Buse hit two free throws, then stole the ball from Nate Archibald to set up a dunk shot by Dan Roundfield and bring the Pacers within striking distance.

Suns 107, Braves 92
Ricky Sobers scored a career-high 30 points to pace Phoenix over Buffalo.

Bulls 101, Hawks 95
Mickey Johnson and Artis Gilmore combined for 17 fourth-quarter points and picked off 13 rebounds to guide Chicago past Atlanta. The Bulls, winning for the eighth time in their last 10 games, could not put the game away until the final two minutes, when Norm Van Lier made four straight free throws.

Spurs 118, Bullets 116
San Antonio got 26 points from Larry Kenon and survived a scare when Washington's Elvin Hayes narrowly missed a tip-in with one second left, preserving the Spurs' victory over the Bullets.

Hayes ignited a late Bullets' surge by scoring 12 straight points in a 3:36 span of the final period. Before Hayes got hot, the Spurs owned a 109-100 advantage.

Bucks 112, Warriors 103
Milwaukee's Bob Dandridge scored 16 of his 22 points in the second half, leading the Bucks over Golden State. Gus Williams and Rick Barry rallied the Warriors from an eightpoint, fourth-quarter deficit to within 100-99 and 104-103. But Dandridge scored a basket to make it 106-103 and trigger a run of eight consecutive points by the Bucks.

Nuggets 123, Sonics 95
David Thompson scored a season-high 38 points and Denver used a brilliant secondquarter defense to whip Seattle. The Nuggets, trailing 30-25 after the opening period, held the SuperSonics to 14 points in the second quarter and led 54-44 at the half. Seattle, with center Tom Burleson in foul trouble, never recovered.

Aeros Edge Stingers, 6-5
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Houston Aeros believe in doing things in pairs.

The Aeros used two goals by both Rich Preston and Terry Ruskowski to a 6-5 overtime triumph over the Cincinnati Stingers in a World Hockey Association game Thursday night. It was Preston's second tally of the game just 1:04 into the overtime period that provided Houston with the victory.

In other WHA action, Calgary nipped Minnesota 2-1 and New England defeated San Diego 5-3.

Ruskowski scored twice within 45 seconds in the second period to give the Aeros a 4-1 lead before the Stingers stormed ahead with four straight goals, including a pair by Rich Leduc. But Houston tied the game on Marty Howe's eighth goal of the season at 14:26 of the third period, then Preston gave the Aeros their first overtime win this year in five tries.

Sabres Bomb Bruins; Win NHL Tilt 4-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

All the Buffalo Sabres wanted for Christmas was first place in the National Hockey League's Adams Division ... and they got it with room to spare.

The high-flying Sabres overtook the Boston Bruins Wednesday night and boosted their lead to two points Thursday evening with a come-from-behind 4-2 triumph — their seventh in a row — over the Toronto Maple Leafs while the Bruins were tied 3-3 by the New York Rangers.

"Our guys said they would be in first place by Christmas and they are," said Coach Floyd Smith. "I didn't really expect them to be. Remember they were 12 points back only a month ago."

In other NHL action, Philadelphia downed Washington 5-2, Detroit defeated Pittsburgh 5-2 and St. Louis turned back Vancouver 4-2.

Buffalo's victory over Toronto also guaranteed a merry Christmas for slumping Rene Robert, whose 10th goal of the season with just under five minutes to play snapped a 2-2 tie. Craig Ramsay scored an insurance goal into an empty net with 56 seconds left.

"When it came, it came at the right time," said Robert, who had scored only one goal in his previous 13 games. "I was wondering, shaking my head, how long is this going to last? This was a fine Christmas present."

The Sabres rallied after falling behind 2-0 in the first 5½ minutes on goals 33 seconds apart by Bob Neely and Dave Williams. Rick Martin started Buffalo's comeback with a rinklength solo dash and Andre Savard tied it early in the third period.

Find Cager Had Choked

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — Clementine Johnson, the mother of the Akron Buchtel High School basketball player who died Wednesday night, says the tragedy "was the Lord's will, or else it wouldn't be this way."

Wayne Johnson, 18, died in a game here against Warren Harding High School from what Trumbull County Coroner Dr. Joseph Sudimack Jr. said was apoplexy.

Sudimack said after colliding with a teammate, the youth fell to the floor, vomited, and the contents of his stomach then went into his lungs.

"It was a freak thing," Sudimack said. "He fell down, threw up, and it went back into his lungs."

Mrs. Johnson and her husband Thomas — as well as their other children Bruce, and Lisa, a Buchtel cheerleader — were at the game looking on as a trainer and doctor tried to revive the youth by mouth to mouth resuscitation and a heart massage.

"He never said a word," said Mrs. Johnson, who rushed to the playing floor with her husband when Wayne didn't get up. "I didn't even hear a groan."

MERRY CHRISTMAS

In our hustle and bustle of everyday living, we sometimes forget what "Holiday Season" is all about. Let us all pause and give thanks to God for our many friends and blessings and for the virgin birth of Christ, the answer to all peoples problems everywhere.

All the folks at John F. Hunt - Real Estate wish you and yours a very, very Merry Christmas.

MERRY CHRISTMAS MERRY CHRISTMAS

In our hustle and bustle of everyday living, we sometimes forget what "Holiday Season" is all about. Let us all pause and give thanks to God for our many friends and blessings and for the virgin birth of Christ, the answer to all peoples problems everywhere.

All the folks at John F. Hunt - Real Estate wish you and yours a very, very Merry Christmas.

SAVING TIME AT HAROLD MUNDY'S!

The last week of 1976 can be the time to save hundreds of dollars on a New or Used Car or Truck.
We have slashed prices even much lower than our normal low prices in order to reduce our inventory before years end. Look at these examples.

SAVING TIME AT HAROLD MUNDY'S!

The last week of 1976 can be the time to save hundreds of dollars on a New or Used Car or Truck.

We have slashed prices even much lower than our normal low prices in order to reduce our inventory before years end. Look at these examples.
